Million Dollar Rain Welcomed By People Of British Columbia

Saanich Berry Growers Pleased; More Than Quarter-inch of Rain in Victoria District Up to This Afternoon

FIRE NEAR NORTH VANCOUVER-OUT

After a dry period, which in Victoria has extended for twenty-five days, a "million dollar" rain swept over British Columbia to-day, bringing quick relief in an acute forest fire situation and a boon to fruit growers in various parts of the province.

Saanich strawberry farmers heaved a sigh of relief when they got out bed this morning to find the heavens pouring out a welcome deluge. It was just in time to stave off a disaster in the berry crop.

MORE EXPECTED
To-day's downfall, which had reached a total of 29 inches in Victoria up to 11 o'clock this morning, probably will not be the last of it, in the opinion of F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory at Gonzales.

Sweeping in from the ocean as the result of a storm of some dimension centred off the Coast, the rain was general on the Island, throughout the lower mainland and into the Okanagan and Kootenay areas, also extending as far north as Prince George.

UNSETTLED ON COAST

Conditions are generally unsettled on the Coast and this may mean we will have some more rain in the next few days. The storm, which is some distance off the Coast, is heading this way and the probability is that a further downfall is coming, the weatherman said.

While British Columbia received the major benefit from the week-end rain, it is likely the prairies will also get relief. In Kansas and Colorado heavy showers were reported. The West Coast of Vancouver Island, as usual, had a heavy precipitation. Estevan being the wettest with 1.84 inches up to 5 o'clock this morning. While the berry growers in Saanich and districts adjacent to Victoria heartily welcomed the rain, they do not want too much of it.

DUMP DUTY ON ANIMALS LIFTED

Ottawa Order-in-council Affects Livestock Coming From Britain

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 20.—Extension from the operation of the currency regulations is given to various farm animals imported into Canada for the purpose of improving stocks, according to an order-in-council published to-day. Formerly such animals, when imported from Great Britain, were subjected to the governmental regulations controlling the fluctuations of the British pound sterling.

The government some time ago fixed the value of the pound at $4.40, and two months later the average value of the pound for the next two weeks. If that average value was lower than $4.40 the government collected the difference as a dumping duty on goods entering Canada.

Horses, cattle, sheep, goats, asses, swine and dogs, when imported for the improvement of stock, are now exempted from that governmental regulation. In future importations of these animals will be made on the basis of the bi-monthly average value of the pound, thus eliminating the dumping duty.

Appeal By Oil Company in Alberta Against Gas Saving Ruling Dismissed

Canadian Press
Edmonton, June 20.—Dismissing the action of Spooner Oil Limited for reversal of Alberta Gas Conservation Board ruling, Mr. Justice Ewing, in the Alberta Supreme Court, to-day held the Alberta Conservation Act does not conflict with Dominion regulations and that the province had not exceeded its authority in approving the act.

Mr. Justice Ewing further held the holders of Dominion oil and gas leases were bound under their terms to prevent waste. Orders of the conservation board, under the act, he held, were proper.

Application for costs for the company was denied under the ruling.

Fifty Men Carried By Air-planes to Mistassini River to Fight Outbreak

Canadian Press
Chicoutimi, Que., June 20.—Forest fires, more or less serious, continued to rage in the districts of Chicoutimi and Lake St. John, and in the absence of rain, the situation in some sections is alarming. A number of new fires have broken out in both counties and the fire rangers with their forest brigades are kept busy.

Fifty men were transported by air-planes yesterday to aid in fighting a fire along the Mistassini River, 150 miles from the village of the same name.

Two hundred men employed by the government and pulp companies to-day were struggling with the various outbreaks in Lake St. John county.

Pu-Yi Officials Seize Customs Revenue: Chinese Blame Japanese

Associated Press
Peiping, China, June 20.—China is facing a major financial calamity as a result of the Japanese government's interference with the Chinese customs administration in Manchuria, according to T. V. Soong, Finance Minister in the National Government.

Finance Minister Soong is here from Nanking, conferring with the League of Nations inquiry commission.

He charged that under Japanese investigation, authorities of Henry Pu-Yi's regime had appropriated the customs revenues collected at Harbin, Newchwang and Antung, and now were preventing the dispatch of remittances to Nanking from Dairen, which is in Chinese territory leased to Japan.

The total revenue at Manchurian ports comprised 15 per cent of the entire customs revenue, he said, and (Turn to Page 2, Col 3)

Dollar and Pound Slip at New York

New York, June 20.—Canadian and British currencies started the week by declining slightly on the local foreign exchange market to-day.

The Canadian dollar, after early firmness, closed 1/2 cent lower at 86 cents, and the pound sterling ended the day 1 1/2 cents at $3.60, for cables.

No representative of the Free State government was on hand, not even the Attorney-General, although the latter was cited as respondent in the case.

Bonus Army's Camp Creates Disease Menace

The picture above gives Times readers an impression of the unprecedented scenes being witnessed at Washington, where 12,000 jobless veterans of the Great War are encamped, demonstrating in favor of immediate payment of a bonus to ex-soldiers which for all the United States would total $2,400,000,000. Following the rejection by the Senate last Friday of the bill passed by the House of Representatives, a number of squads of the men accepted offers of truck transportation from the authorities and started home, but the main body of veterans remained. The shelters hastily built by the government at Anacostia (aids are not equipped adequately and health authorities say there is danger of an outbreak of disease. Most of the cooking is done in the open. The men arrived in Washington from widely separated parts of the republic, some having traveled all the way from the Pacific Coast.

Local Men Refused Pier Island Jobs

Government Practice Bars Any Outside Nanaimo Riding From Work on Nudists Home; Trades and Labor Council Complains

Victoria's unemployed workmen will be barred from getting jobs on construction of the home for nudist Doukhobors at Pier Island, it was learned this morning as the result of a complaint laid before the City Council by the Victoria District Trades and Labor Council.

Mayor Leeming has already taken the matter up with Dominion Government officials and has been definitely told that it will not be possible for Victorians to get jobs on the project. Oak Bay and Saanich are within the Nanaimo federal riding, residents of those districts are eligible while Victorians are not.

The complaint from the Trades and Labor Council arose out of the fact that they were unable to get jobs on the project. They were told that they were not eligible for the work.

"In view of the large number of building trades mechanics unemployed in the city we thought you might be able to influence the proper authorities to give the city residents an equal opportunity. We are informed all applications have to be made to Mr. Wallace, an official of the Conservative party," the complaint states.

On receipt of this letter Mayor Leeming took the matter up with the Dominion officials and has replied that he was definitely informed that it is the practice of the government to employ men from the riding in which the work is being done. Since Oak Bay and Saanich are within the Nanaimo federal riding, residents of those districts are eligible while Victorians are not.

The correspondence on the matter will go before the City Council this evening.

CONFISCATED BOAT GOES ACROSS GULF

The Tacoma fishing vessel, St. Patrick, which Magistrate Jay ordered confiscated for fishing in Canadian waters after Mr. Justice Archer Martin in an Admiralty Court trial had ordered her freed, to-day passed out of Victoria jurisdiction.

Marshall-in-Admiralty H. W. Goggin to-day turned the vessel over to the Dominion Fisheries Department. Officials of this department immediately set out with her across the Gulf for New Westminster, where they will hold her until she is disposed of by the government. It is expected she will be put up for sale.

Early Arrivals Warming Up For Contests Next Week At Big Convention

CANNOT STOP TRANSIENTS

Hon. J. Hinchliffe Replies to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Who Suggests Remedy

If Province Arrested Men It Would Have to Keep Them; Cannot Ship Them Back

Correspondence between Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and the Associated Property Owners of Vancouver, appearing in The Vancouver Daily Province yesterday, drew forth some pointed remarks from Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, acting-premier, to-day.

The correspondence related to the influx of transients to this province each fall. The federal minister pointed out that the enforcement and preservation of law and order is the constitutional right and duty of the province.

Mr. Hinchliffe admits the obligation of the province in maintaining law and order, but says the province has no power to exclude any person from entering British Columbia. This province, he says, is justified in seeking to ameliorate conditions for its bona fide residents during the winter months. It wishes the co-operation of the prairie provinces as well as the Dominion Government in arriving at an amicable settlement of the question.

"Hon. Mr. Stevens writes that British Columbia, if desirous of keeping transients out, may stop every freight train on the way west and arrest them," said Mr. Hinchliffe. "but after we arrest them what? Under the law we may give them ten days in jail for vagrancy, then we turn them loose at the jail door and they are again free to continue their journey. We may not escort them to the Alberta boundary, much less to the prairie provinces. We have no authority to do so. We may arrest them by the hundreds, but the taxpayers of British Columbia would be called upon to foot the bill for their maintenance in jail, and after their jail term was completed, they could still remain in the province. Further, under the law, they may be taken to the freight train just over the Alberta boundary and walk across in an orderly manner and we have no right to molest them."

WITHDRAWS RESIGNATION

Associated Press
Shanghai, China, June 20.—T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, who submitted his resignation a week ago, has reconsidered and will remain in the cabinet.

MANITOBA'S PROPOSALS

The Manitoba premier came prepared to present the attitude of that province's farm leaders toward the Imperial Economic Conference in the form of six points. One declared a wheat quota system would not be in the best interests of Canadian wheat producers although wider markets for wheat are essential. Another recommended stabilization of exchange and other suggestions were the creation of an Empire markets intelligence board, wider facilities for the distribution of British goods in Canada and preferences to British manufacturers in general use, such as clothes, textiles, woolens, boots and shoes. The sixth stressed the need for wider markets for all classes of Canadian farm products.

Premier S. F. Tolson of British Columbia will go to Ottawa after the meeting here to outline to the Dominion Government the hopes and needs of the lumber industry of his province.

THUGS HUNTED IN VANCOUVER

Clerk in Store Beaten on Head By Two Bandits With Revolver Butts

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 20.—Police here to-day were hunting for two armed bandits who raided the store of Dickson Lee on Nanaimo Street late Saturday evening, beat a clerk over the head with revolver butts, terrorized a woman customer and escaped with $25.

Miss Worley, William Street, was the victim. The bandits entered the place with drawn guns and called: "Hands up!"

One gunman covered the customer and clerk, while the second looted the cash register. Before leaving, the bandits threatened the clerk with a revolver. They disappeared north on Nanaimo Street.

SESSION SLOW AT LAUSANNE

Plenary Meeting of Conferees Postponed While French-German Difference Debated

Premier Herriot Reported to Have Compromise on Reparations to Offer

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Lausanne, Switzerland, June 20.—The international reparations and war debts conference was more or less delayed to-day because of a deadlock between the French and German representatives in committee over the scope of the meeting.

German representatives wanted the open session scheduled for to-morrow to permit debate centering about total cancellation of reparations, while the French wanted a German declaration of intention to pay something-some time.

As a result, the plenary meeting was postponed indefinitely while the work is going on behind the scenes. Premier Herriot of France was believed this evening to have a compromise to offer as a solution of the Franco-German difficulty. He asserted on the opening day that cancellation of reparations was secondary in importance to action on removing tariff barriers.

Divers succeeded in finding the body of Ida Brown, eight, of 855 Biddle Street, yesterday afternoon near the spot where the child lost her life in the waters of English Bay.

The little girl's body was discovered by Fred Rowe, English Bay, and Ted Cuckertvich, Carrall Street. It was removed to the city morgue to await instructions from the coroner.

The body of Joseph Oleskie, ten, Burnaby Street, another victim of the triple drowning on Saturday when the youthful bathers were swept beneath the waves, was not recovered.

OBSERVERS EXPRESS OPINION DEMOCRATS HAVE BETTER CHANCE OF WINNING ELECTION THAN AT ANY TIME SINCE WILSON'S TERMS

By Ken Clark
Chicago, June 20.—Democrats were arriving here to-day to quarrel about who shall be their nominee for President and what stand the party will take on prohibition. The National convention is not set to open till next Monday, but already the advance guards of the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith factions are encamped in the hotels along the Lake Michigan front.

The general situation has been clarified by the Republican formality of endorsing President Herbert Hoover and all his policies, past and future. Because of the obvious lock-step glock of the Republican convention last week, observers are convinced the Democratic party has not had such a chance of getting control since the days of Wilson. Some observers suspect it will muffle the opportunity.

ROOSEVELT-SMITH TEST OF STRENGTH

Governor Roosevelt of New York, the Liberal candidate for the Democratic nomination, has about 600 sure votes on the first ballot, approximately 150 short of the necessary two-thirds. The remainder are divided among half a dozen candidates.

The Democrats will fight among themselves as for their nominee. Former governor Alfred E. Smith, representing now the ultra-wet conservative wing, has already by insinuation characterized Roosevelt as a demagogue. His proposal that war debts should be reduced and eliminated on the basis of trade dickers has been beaten by the Democrats' approval throughout the country.

OPPOSED TO WALL STREET

The real force of the Smith position lies in the disapproval of Wall Street and what might be called the solid bourgeoisie of the "dread" statements made by Governor Roosevelt. It also resides in a whispering campaign ably suggesting the United States does not want for president a man who once suffered from infantile paralysis and cannot walk without the aid of a cane and a crutch.

If the Smith forces can defeat on two or three ballots, the Roosevelt combination, the convention will be thrown into confusion, the field will be open, and the kind of row which has frequently been the result of a Democratic victory against the well-disciplined Republican, will be on.

The Chicago Stadium, in which the Republican convention was held last week, will also house the Democratic convention.

FRASER LEVEL FALLS

Gauge at Mission Shows Drop of Three Inches; Cooler Weather Easing Flood Condition

Canadian Press
New Westminster, June 20.—"The Fraser River is dropping." This news passed along low-lying lands of the Fraser valley this morning after officials at the gauge at Mission had reported a drop of three inches since noon Sunday.

The level at the gauge was at the eighteen feet nine inches mark Saturday and Sunday, but cooler temperatures and the four-day runoff at or around the eighteen-foot level had eased the situation considerably.

The river rose to seventeen feet six inches last Wednesday, went up to eighteen feet one inch Thursday, eighteen inches six inches Friday and eighteen feet nine inches Saturday.

Guards will be retained on the dykes for the next few days to watch for seepage, but no reports of damage to the dyking system have come in yet. Pumps are working twenty-four hours a day throwing water accumulated in ditches into the river, where the water backed up on account of the river level being so high.

Reports from upstream state the river overflowed its banks at many points, particularly where the torrent bends sharply. Large tracts of meadow lands not used for agricultural purposes are inundated, but no damage to crops or grazing land is reported. The flooded area being mostly marsh land.

Tributaries of the Fraser and the Thompson's, north and south branches, are roaring torrents still, but snow levels on the interior mountains are being reduced rapidly.

Imperial Conference Delegates Also May Attend Churchill Port Opening

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 20.—The government will consider suggestions that formal openings of the Welland ship canal and the port at Churchill be held this summer in order that delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference may participate in the ceremonies. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, who was back at his desk to-day, following his return at the week-end from a trip to the British Columbia Coast, said personally he was inclined to favor these suggestions.

"The people of the three prairie provinces are optimistic there will be excellent crops this year," the minister stated. "Unless something unexpected happens, they look for one of the best crops in years."

GAINS FORESEEN

Associated Press

Geneva, June 20.—Representatives of Great Britain, the United States and France yesterday evening sought a way to bring the World Disarmament Conference to a successful close, with a view to the ground at last had in mind for a genuine grappling with a problem.

Although no decision was reached, arrangements were made to continue private discussions begun here at a week-end, extending them to representatives of other governments, especially the Italian, German and Japanese, in the search for a basis of agreement.

Participants in yesterday evening's conversation, which lasted more than two hours, said they felt a useful preparation had been made for a genuine grappling with the problem.

Premier MacDonald of Great Britain, assisted by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, explained the British position for qualitative disarmament by a halt to the production of offensive armaments without permitting replacement.

Joseph Paul-Boncour presented the French plan for a global cut in defence budgets.

There was some disposition in informed quarters to believe the British and French had an agreement combining their two plans, but the United States representatives said they got the impression there was no connection between the British and French proposals presented yesterday evening.

MACDONALD
IS HONORED

Canadian Press

Geneva, June 20.—Representatives of leading powers at the Disarmament Conference here gathered with Canadian officials to honor Premier MacDonald of Great Britain at a luncheon given here Sunday by Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian Solicitor-General and delegate to the conference.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, and Dr. W. A. Riddell, the Dominion's advisory officer to the League of Nations, were among the guests, who included two of Premier MacDonald's cabinet colleagues, Sir Herbert Samuel and the Marquis of Londonderry; Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations; Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy; Henri de Jouvencel, French delegate to the conference; and United States Senator Claude A. Swanson.

ARE PREPARING FOR CONFERENCE

Members of Dominion
Cabinet Discuss Details of Empire Gathering

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 20.—The cabinet held a meeting Saturday afternoon and as is the case with most of the cabinet meetings these days the plans for the Imperial Economic Conference were discussed. The government and the sub-committee are seeking to have the preparations as complete as possible when the visitors arrive.

An immense amount of statistical work is being done. Charting what all the preferences allowed Canada by Britain and the other Dominions mean in increased trade and how much the preferences Canada gives the other parts means to them is one of the great tasks. What preferences would develop greater trade and what ones would be of very little assistance are also being studied.

The large number of people who will visit Ottawa at the time of the conference is emphasized as the requests for reservations continue to pour in. Newspaper men from many parts of the empire and from foreign countries will come in great numbers. Many officials and experts will accompany the delegations and many more will come on their own initiative.

Ottawa is dressing up for the occasion. As one local newspaper editorial described it, the city is having "its face lifted." The editorial commented on the progress being made in the "clean-up" campaign.

RIOT IN MEXICO

Morelia, Michoacan, Mexico, June 20.—A laborer was killed and a score of other people injured yesterday in a riot that ended a religious controversy in the Central Plaza.

NEW YORK POLICE
HUNT S. SPITALE

New York, June 20.—Salvy Spitale, who was reported to be a power in an intermediary during the early stages of the search for the abducted Lindbergh baby, was one of three men being sought by police to-day for questioning in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles (Vannie) Higgins yesterday.

Higgins, who posed as a fisherman but who was reputed to be a power in the liquor racket, was shot down by eight men who opened fire methodically at Higgins, his wife and their seven-year-old daughter on a Brooklyn Street. One bullet narrowly missed the child as her father, bleeding from fatal wounds, ran from the attackers' fire only to collapse a moment later.

Before his death Higgins refused to say who had shot him, insisting he would "attend to them."

DROWNINGS
IN ONTARIO

Earl Wilson, Washish, lost his life in trying to save his wife and the two got into deep water at Rondeau Government Park near Ridgeway. Mrs. Wilson was saved.

Clarence Thompson, twenty, Napanee, succumbed while swimming, presumably from over-exhaustion. Zelino Cecchetti, twenty, Sudbury, drowned when a canoe upset in Muskegon Lake, near Sudbury. Three others in the canoe were rescued.

Joseph Guimond, twenty-four, was caught in a whirlpool in the Vermilion River near Sudbury. The body was found by a party of picknickers.

The Otonabee River contributed to the toll with the death of Arnold Host, seventeen, Peterborough. A weak swimmer, he got into difficulty out of his depth.

Warren Warrick, thirty-three, a native of Cornwall, England, drowned while swimming in the Mattagami River at Timmins.

Associated Press 20—Carlos Davila, head of the Socialist Junta of Chile, emphatically declared yesterday that all armed forces and a "united country" stood behind his government, despite reports of another counter-revolution on behalf of Col. Marmaduke Grove, former head of the country's air service.

Simultaneously came an announcement from the Junta that a destroyer carrying Grove and his principal aide, Eugenio Matte, as prisoner to Juan Fernandez Island was proceeding. This flatly contradicted reports that part of the air force had rebelled and was detaining the destroyer.

The Junta also denied reports of rebellious airman had captured the airports at Iquique, Quintero and Valparaiso, and insisted the country was quiet.

AT KITCHENER

Canadian Press

Kitchener, Ont., June 20.—"I do not think there is anyone in the Empire who is designing to interfere with established Canadian industries, and I think Canadian industries doing their work well need have no fear," Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the Waterloo County Canadian Club Saturday in an incidental reference to the coming Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa.

Having quoted statistics from the census department showing more men were actively engaged in adult work at seventy years than at twenty, and that at twenty-eight years only half of the young men were at adult work, Mr. Stevens said: "It would appear youth is not taking a measure of responsibility, but I am confident nevertheless it is the age for youth."

FORTUNE SEIZED

Associated Press

Madrid, June 20.—Former King Alfonso's private fortune was declared confiscated yesterday by the director of the Spanish Republic's treasury.

The fortune included more than $2,500,000 in cash and securities, as well as other possessions valued at more than $500,000.

The money and bonds would be attached to the public treasury and the immovable property would belong to the state, the director said. He revealed that 21,000,000 pesetas (about $1,700,000) worth of seized property had not belonged to the deposed king, but to societies over which he had presided.

Ottawa, June 20.—A remarkable movement in the improvement in New Zealand's visible balance of trade during the last two years, says a report received by the Department of Trade and Commerce from H. E. Priestman, assistant Canadian commissioner, Auckland.

"For the quarter ended March 31, 1932, total exports were valued at $11,499,601 and imports at $5,849,283, showing a favorable balance of $5,650,318. For the corresponding quarter of 1931, exports totaled $12,154,418 and imports $7,496,719, showing a favorable balance of $4,657,699. The apparent improvement of $992,619 arises from a decrease of approximately $1,600,000 in imports—a great fall in relation to the total—combined with a decrease of some $250,000 in total exports."

The United Kingdom was the destination of the bulk of all exports, taking $10,034,114 out of the total for the quarter of $11,499,601. New Zealand bought from the United Kingdom to the value of $3,036,754.

During the quarter under review Canada sold New Zealand $203,782, as compared with $470,431 for the same quarter in 1931. Canada bought from New Zealand $65,097 and in the first three months of 1931, a total of $124,563.

WHICH AM YOU?
QUALITIEST?

All "one-feature" gasolines have their faults

HOW can any man decide between "one-feature" gasolines? One stops knocking—yet reduces the mileage you get. Another gives you power—but sputters and misses in starting. Each lacks something and that means engine waste!

Shell perfects a 3-energy fuel

In unrefined petroleum are many kinds of energy. There's wasteful "gassy" energy. And sluggish fractions like kerosene. These Shell discards. And selects right from the heart of petroleum only the three vital kinds: Quick energy; power energy; and anti-knock energy.

The result is Shell 3-energy gasoline—a fuel for every job your motor has to do. Notice how it starts your engine instantly.

Check the mileage it gives you. Feel its pick-up, its constant power.

And if anti-knock interests you

Compare the anti-knock value of Shell 3-energy with any other non-premium fuel in the market. Again and again checked tests have proved Shell 3-energy's octane rating the highest of all!

You're going to like this new Shell 3-energy gasoline. Get a tankful today.

SEALED TANKS! For your protection, Shell 3-energy is colored golden amber. Every station tank that is filled with it is sealed. You know what you're getting from the yellow Shell pump.

THE FORTHCOMING CONFERENCE

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE THE other day unanimously adopted a resolution declaring that the chief aim of the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference should be, as far as possible, "to lower existing trade restrictions within the empire in order to assist producers of natural products." As far as Canada is concerned, the Toronto organization believes that "the return of prosperity to Canadian grain-growers depends on the preservation of the maximum freedom of exchange of products with countries which import or may import Canadian wheat." The point here made may not be original; but the significance of its repetition lies in the fact that an important Toronto commercial body has drawn attention to an undisputed truth. The concluding part of the resolution reads as follows:

To-day there is copious evidence to show that international trade is drifting into a state of deadlock, and, indeed, is fast disappearing altogether: the British government, in exempting the rest of the empire from the effects of its duties recently imposed, has indicated the sincerity of its desire to promote increased trade within the empire; and we believe that permanent improvement in manufacturing conditions in Canada can only arise through an improvement in the position of the producers of natural products arising from agriculture, mining, fishing and the forest.

Writing to the press from Toronto on Saturday on the subject of the conference, Mr. Paul Reading alluded to Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin's recent announcement that the British delegates will seek the nearest possible approach to empire free trade—which he suggests is meeting with mingled reactions in this country. Mr. Reading further observes that there have already been intimations from Ottawa that Canada will offer a doubtful welcome to the competition of the British manufacturer against her own producers, and may only concede the trade that now goes to foreigners. If the conference is to be a success, of course, these two views will have to be reconciled. If all of the delegates sit down to the business of the gathering with an "everybody first" bee in their bonnets, not only will no good come of it, but incalculable harm may be done.

In striking contrast with the sentiments to which the Toronto Board of Trade resolution gives expression is the attitude of some of our Canadian interests. Only the other day the conference between British and Canadian cotton men ended in a complete deadlock and the last that seems to have been heard of their efforts to discover common ground—about the middle of last week—was that the British delegates would delay their departure for home for a couple of days in the hope that some sort of agreement might be reached. As this is written there is no indication that further progress was made.

The organization of which the Old Country visitors are members is the Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association of Great Britain, headed by Mr. John H. Grey. In its anticipatory reference to this meeting The Montreal Star thought it was "fraught with the greatest importance" and it felt it could not "emphasize too often that it will be the business men of the empire, not her statesmen, who will in the end make the success or failure of the conference." Unfortunately, however, less than a week after the cotton men had commenced their round-table discussions, the British delegates felt constrained to go to Ottawa to tell Premier Bennett in effect that the Canadian textile manufacturers would not consent to share with them in the slightest measure the market in Canada which was formerly theirs but which was taken away from them by the tariff legislation of the present government at Ottawa, supplemented by the exchange penalties and dumping duties imposed by order-in-council. "There never was any doubt about the position of the Canadian cotton manufacturers," observes The Winnipeg Free Press, since "the various measures by which these Canadian markets were taken away from the British manufacturers were enacted by the government at their solicitation, if not at their demand; and they do not propose to consent to give back a particle of the advantage they have thus gained." It looks as if they told the British textile representatives that if they could find any market for their products in Canada which the domestic manufacturers did not want, it was theirs for the taking. To support this suggestion it is only necessary to quote The Canadian Textile Journal, which argued recently that "current exchange and special duty regulations make the duties paid on imports appear excessive," but the Canadian industry "had been severely handicapped under the previous preferential tariff rates, and this adjustment was long overdue." Then The Journal tells us quite frankly that the present government was elected "to provide adequate tariff protection against all outside competition." How far that protection has been applied to British goods alone is shown in the following comparative table, the duties of 1930 being those imposed under the policies of the King government and those under the heading of 1932 by the present government:

All who desire to see the conference a success—as it ought to be and will be if the right spirit shall be allowed to prevail—will agree with the sentiments of Senator A. D. McRae, who, noting that there is a disposition on the part of some Canadians to approach it "with a wish to get everything and give nothing," warns that "this is a policy which, if pursued, will gain Canada nothing," so "we must be prepared to contribute something to the general welfare of the empire."

The Montreal Star, as already mentioned, seems to be pinning its faith on the business men rather than on the statesmen of the empire as far as the hopes of this conference are concerned. We shall hope, too, that the advice of Senator McRae and other public leaders will emphasize the responsibility which so obviously rests on the shoulders of Canada's captains of industry in this regard. They stand to benefit very considerably from a new empire economic arrangement.

OPTIMISTIC GENERAL DAWES

WHEN HE ARRIVED IN CHICAGO ON Saturday, General Charles G. Dawes, retiring president of the United States Reconstruction and Finance Corporation, declared his belief that the neighboring republic had reached the turning-point in the depression. He said he had noted the general improvement in the small business enterprises of the country, and he predicts that recovery will start from the bottom up and not from the top down, as past experience abundantly shows.

To explain more fully what he meant by this revival in the smaller business enterprises with low overhead expenses, General Dawes said he attributed much more importance, for example, to the increases of electric power consumption in the United States in the last two weeks than to stock or bond quotations. "It is the average man and the average man's business which is the main factor in the situation," he pointed out, "and his business, in the aggregate, is enormous."

General Dawes is by no means given to loquacity. When he makes a public statement, as he did in Chicago, it is usually brief and to the point. It is therefore not surprising that his observations already are regarded as more than ordinarily significant. He has just come from his work at Washington where, to use his own words, "one gets, in its fair perspective, the general business situation in the country." As the turning point is reached in the United States, of course, so will Canada experience a similarly favorable reaction.

THE KREUGER DISCLOSURES

THE FARTHER THE INVESTIGATION into the affairs of the late Ivar Kreuger is pushed the more astounding the whole thing becomes. The disclosure that the famous "match king" had personal debts and indirect liabilities of more than $168,000,000 at the time of his death is one of those things that ordinary folk can hardly credit. Here was a man, apparently, who built up a house of cards on a more colossal scale than anyone before him had ever dreamed of. Great financiers and small investors seem to have been alike in the way they were hoodwinked.

The tragedy of it, of course, is the fact that it is the more or less innocent bystander who suffers the most. A revolver bullet took Kreuger beyond the reach of financial worries; but his debts are very real, and present indications are that many of his creditors will get little or nothing on their claims.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PENGUIN EGGS NOW ARE ON LONDON HOTEL MENU The London Daily Mail

London likes penguin eggs! It is less than a month since the first consignment of 3,000 eggs arrived from the Antarctic. West End hotels and restaurants absorbed these in three days and ever since have been pleading for more.

The second consignment arrived recently. There were 4,800 eggs. Within the next few days 12,000 more will be imported, and thereafter until the end of June weekly supplies will come in.

Penguin eggs will be on the menus of 100 hotels and restaurants in London. They are two and one-half times the weight of a hen's egg and they take from 20 to 25 minutes to boil.

Dealers and provincial towns have approached the importers for supplies. The price retail is roughly 5s. a dozen.

BRAZIL BURNS COFFEE The New York Times

Ruthlessly resolved to force coffee prices up, Brazil's National Coffee Council continues to burn coffee. It announced recently that 6,865,641 sacks of coffee have been burned. It promised to burn by January 1, 1933, a total of 18,000,000 sacks each containing 132 pounds of coffee. At approximately $6.50 per sack, $117,000,000 worth of coffee will have been burned to smoke and ash.

Never before have men burned so much that is good to drink. But desperate Brazilians are convinced that their course is shrewd, point to "favorable results already." By this they mean that Brazilian coffee prices have risen in New York about 40 per cent since the coffee bonfires were lighted last year. Other commodity prices have not kept pace, remain tragically down, thus strengthening Brazilians in their will to bean destruction.

Automatic in word and deed, the Coffee Council claimed that they have "definitely and irrevocably" abandoned a plan to pay premiums to U.S. coffee merchants who use more Brazilian coffee.

Loose Ends

Good news for tired readers—on to Cariboo and better meals—protests from professors and more worthless advice.

By H. R. W.

YOU MUST forgive me for a few days if my ideas do not appear as sound, or as unsound, as usual. You see, I am in the throes. I am in the throes of preparing to go away, and when you are in the throes of preparing to go away, the concerns of the public and of the world at large don't concern you much. Yes, I am going away, and as I enjoy a singular lack of originality, I am going where I always go, to the Cariboo. I don't seem to be able to think of any other place somehow. I am going, therefore, to the top of a mountain I know where there is a solitary ranch house, a vast expanse of green plateau land, a rim of snow-capped peaks all around like the sides of a cup, lots of cows and horses, some Indians and a few white people, but not enough to get in one's way. There is plenty of space up there and an atmosphere so invigorating that they have only to sleep three hours every other night. There are miles and miles of unfenced land where you can gallop as hard as you like, and no one to see how you have done it. There is a horseman in the last few years, a horseman you up if you fall off. There are fish, in a little round lake as black as ink, which looks like an evil eye staring at you as you come down the twisting road.

BUT MORE important, there are the old-time customs of the Cariboo, a kind of separate civilization which was founded with the gold rush in the sixties and still survives. It is a civilization of long evenings, great spaces and many meals. Yes, I should say that the civilization of the Cariboo was distinctly a day up there with meat, huge plates of it, at every meal. They bake their pies by the square yard and their cakes by the ton. And, what is most gratifying, what most distinguishes the civilization of Cariboo from the effete and degenerate civilization of these coastal regions, they always serve the men at table first. Up there, you see, men are men. A woman is only a woman and a good meal is a food. Therefore, the men are served first, and the women take what is left, a rule invariable at every genuine old-time stopping house or Cariboo ranch. If you see the women served first up there, that is no history, that is a fact. I am happy to say, however, that Cariboo civilization has withstood all assaults so far, and in most places the women wait. In some places, indeed, at the fine old stopping houses of the Barkerville Road, the women eat in the kitchen and the men eat in the dining room. But the civilization of the Barkerville Road is superior even to that of Cariboo proper.

WHAT I AM really going to the Cariboo for, however, is something different, though you may doubt it. I am going to get away from the general, kind reader, to get away from you and all like you. Up there, you see, there is no depression, because they have always been poor and never expect to be anything else. There are no economies. There are no politics in the sense that we know them; or rather, their politics are so simple, so primitive, so trusting and innocent that they cannot properly be called politics. There is also a strange confidence in outsiders which makes you blush. They listen with respect to you up in the Cariboo. They think you must know something because you come from the city; whereas it is quite obvious to you that, having time to read all the papers and think about what they read, the people up there know much more than you do, that their opinions are not distorted by the mob psychology and the half-truths of the newspaper. Their outlook is much more balanced, much sadder than your own. Anyway, I am going in a few days, and your satisfaction at this separation cannot possibly equal mine.

MEANWHILE THREE angered educationists have addressed protests to this column concerning the present system of education. They disagree on what is wrong with me, each of them having a different diagnosis, varying from plain ignorance to wilful misrepresentation; but they all agree on one point—that I don't know what I'm talking about. This is quite true. Neither do they. So we stand there. Anyway, they object chiefly to my suggestion that our education to-day does not equip the young for the problems of the world, does not teach them the truth about things. I should have thought that the recent collapse of civilization all over America, where the vast majority have a common school education at least, would have indicated in a vague way that something was wrong, but let that pass.

NOR DO I mean that our schooling should be confined to technical education, to teaching boys how to run engines or install plumbing, and girls how to make pies and pinfrows. What I mean is to let our schools do just what they do best, to teach the children properly equipped for the business of living in these times, do not fit them for life in the terms of the present day, do not, in brief, breed a democracy competent to solve the existing problems of government. Perhaps this is, in view of the fact that education must be prescribed by governments, and the chief desire of governments, and above all, existing governments. They are not going to mold the young into the mold of the comfortable arrangements of the older generation. They are going to mold it, if they can, to think exactly as the old generation thinks and to maintain all its comfortable arrangements, even after their utility has long been recognized. The system, therefore, discourages and quickly disciplines any teacher who has

KIRK'S Wellington Coal

"Doe Last Longer" G 231

An idea of his own, or who ventures to suggest that any of the comfortable arrangements of the older generation or any of the acts of governments are wrong. Half the time teachers are expounding notions which they don't believe at all; I have enough respect for most of them to increase the estimate to three-quarters of the time. And even at that, statesmen are constantly complaining in my presence about the dangerous notions of our university professors, who sometimes reveal what they really think.

I THINK I should add something. I therefore, to my recent hints for matriculants. I think I should tell them not to pay much attention to statesmen and politicians, to society at large, or to fellows like me. They should know that the opinion of society at large, by an inevitable process of gravitation, becomes the opinion of the intelligence of its lowest stratum and isn't worth anything. Any young man who gains the general commendation of society at large can begin to suspect that there is something wrong with it. It is a good deal more than much and probably is riding for a fall, since anyone whom society sets upon a pedestal it invariably hurls into a ditch a few days later. To matriculants I would say don't try to be like other people. Try to be yourself, which probably is the best advice I can give. It will be respectable, but at least in your own way. Be revolutionary. If the highest expression of your revolutionary spirit be only to go without a hat or to wear shorts, go without it and wear them like a man. It is better than not rebelling at all.

BUT IF you can, you should aspire to a higher kind of revolution, and have your own thoughts as well as your own clothes. Do your own thinking on everything and doubt everything you hear from someone else like statesmen and me. Even if you are wrong, you will probably be as right as we are, or society at large, and you will be a lot happier. And altogether, the whole difference between my advice and the advice you will receive from the authorities is that they want you to be like your grandfathers, like everyone else, like themselves; they are afraid of what you might do if you should ever forget your training and be natural; they are afraid of you, your self. While I want you to be yourself, I will give you a chance. I think it will be amusing.

From The Times Files

Giving a sense of tremendous power, although the possibilities of destruction were safely housed, H.M.S. Monmouth swung easily into Esquimalt harbor yesterday afternoon and dropped anchor. The ship, which was the British admiralty she has arrived to convey Prince Pushkin from this port to his home in Japan.

Mayor Morley this morning paid an informal visit on the officers of H.M.S. Monmouth and extended to them a written welcome to the city and the horse races here to-day.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Fresh to strong westerly winds, generally fair, not much change in temperature.

The E. & N. Railway is about to introduce a new train on their line. There will be two. Visitors will be able to feast their eyes on the grand vistas which entrance the vision along this beautiful line. One car has already arrived and the second will arrive this afternoon.

"They will be fast crews that beat the local boys," is the way Paul Austin describes the progress which the J.B. A.A. crews are making, preparatory to taking part in the N.P.A.A. regatta at Lake Washington. Phil Austin, himself a former member of the "Big Four," has general charge of the boys and is well satisfied with their progress.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the regatta at Shawnigan Lake on July 20. It is intended to make arrangements with the E. & N. to have a special train to run from Victoria to Shawnigan on that date.

BIG FRUIT CROP DUE IN CANADA

Ottawa, June 20.—Fruit crop prospects for the Dominion are very satisfactory and indicate yields of all crops will equal or exceed those of 1931, a statement issued by the fruit branch of the department of agriculture says.

All contributing factors, weather excepted, have been favorable to date, the reports continue. Cool rainy weather generally prevailed throughout the country together with slight frosts in some districts during the blossoming period. But it is thought that it will not result in a severe reduction in the production. Diseases and insect pests are well under control.

Vancouver Store Robbed of $185

Vancouver, June 20.—Breaking into the premises of the Roy Upholstery Company at 302 West Broadway early Sunday morning, thieves smashed open the office safe and stole $185. The robbery was discovered at 7.47 a.m. by George E. Rogers, manager of the company, who resides in a suite above the store. He told officers he had heard a noise at 3 a.m. Sunday, but did not investigate when it was reported the loss was covered by insurance.

Burglars entered the home of J. C. Martin at 4732 Glenheim Street and stole $42 and personal effects.

ESQUIMALT BEER VOTE

To the Editor:—I am of the opinion that writers such as "One Who Lives Near a Beer Parlor" do more harm to their cause than good by the use of false, inaccurate and stupid statements.

To suggest that three glasses of beer make people "whooper," is bad enough, and I only wonder what three whiffs of a strong cigar would do to "One Who Lives Near a Beer Parlor."

It is a well-known fact that beer contains approximately 90 per cent water, with only 10 per cent alcohol and balance other valuable ingredients. If beer, and particularly draught beer, which can only be had in beer parlors, is recommended by the medical men in the world, then why should those who want it be prohibited from getting it under proper care and supervision?

I for one will vote "yes."

THE BIBLE STUDENTS

To the Editor:—Is the most cherished of British traditions to be trampled underfoot in the Dominion? There seems a real danger of this of speech and of the press disappearing altogether, except for dominant and privileged sects and groups. The nations to whom we send missionaries are liberally allowed to enjoy more freedom than we do ourselves. In Sherbrooke recently men were jailed for selling Bibles. In Quebec arrested for official protestant pamphlets, and in Montreal for giving away religious tracts. Can this be beaten anywhere in the history of the world? True, on appeal, the law was elicited that the dissenting literature was not "blasphemous," and elsewhere a technical point was raised—a "libel" which may be refused at the absolute discretion of a local official, but surely a child could see through that. The fundamental issue is: Has any town or city the right to enact by-laws whose obvious purpose and effect is to exterminate liberty for minorities? If Isaiah or Paul, Fox, Farel or Bradshaw were living in Quebec to-day, they would spend the rest of their lives in prison under existing by-laws. Is liberty in Canada to become a perquisite of the big purse and mainly a fading memory for the rest of us?

THE INDEPENDENT PARTY

To the Editor:—I am surprised that intelligent people should be led astray or allowed themselves to be led by such leaders as are at the head of the above party.

A third party is never any benefit to any one unless it is to the very party in power that it intended to get rid of.

The independent party has so far not put forward one principle that would relieve the present conditions or situation.

They have been very busy condemning both political parties. If they have any suggestion to make, they should put it forward and make an improvement on present conditions, then let them go to either party and tell them "we control so many thousands of votes, now if you adopt these principles which we are convinced would improve conditions we will support you with so many votes."

After all is said and done there are only two parties, the government and the opposition.

Moreover, at least one of the leaders and one expected to be a leader, is the very man whom we have to thank for the very high taxation which we now bear right here in the city, and how he can have the gall after what we suffer at his instigation to come before the public and ask them to again place their confidence in him is more than I can understand.

Victoria was badly unbalanced once by the same individual, if it allows itself to be fooled a second time it certainly will deserve all it will get.

The present government may be everything that is bad, but a so-called independent government would be ten times worse.

A. R. SHERK, 960 Cowichan Street, Victoria, B.C., June 18, 1932.

EMPLOYMENT FOR ALL

To the Editor:—It is a startling statement but a true one, that if only start were made on the different projects and improvements now being in this end of Vancouver Island, there would be work for everybody who was in need of it.

It is suggested, with all due respect to both sides, that no permanent good can be realized by the "Ins" who cannot improve conditions by making after-dinner speeches about prosperity being "around the corner," or the "Ours" using up their energy in plastering the telegraph posts with a lot of literature about a subject that the majority of the people are hardly enough interested in to read. It would be more to the point if the capitalists of commerce and the leaders of the unemployed had a friendly meeting, talked things over and mapped out a programme of needed improvements. Then the unemployed gentlemen would discover that among the business men there is a large percentage who are eager and willing to help with time or financial resources to provide for those who have had enough enterprise to operate successfully a business, but who have not enough to get a position as a clerk in a "white" store.

There is no reason in the world why we let people from China completely monopolize the vegetable and fruit trade, and who sell to housekeepers, who will most likely the next morning send their own young men and women downtown to get a position as a clerk in a "white" store.

There were nine Chinese—all open-

Big Majority For New Government

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter Sydney, Australia, June 20.—The extent of the sweeping defeat sustained in the New South Wales General Election by the Labor Party, led by H. J. T. Lang, is revealed by the results of the polling. These give the following distribution:

United Australia Party 50 per cent
Country Party 25 per cent
Labor Party 25 per cent

The coalition, under the leadership of Hon. B. S. Stephens of the United Australia and Country parties, enjoys possession of more than 50 per cent of the seats as the combined opposition groups. The fact that the Premier Lang was supported by five of the ninety members of the Parliament illustrates the sharpness of the reverse.

NEW SERUM FOR TYPHUS

Associated Press Service Writer Washington, June 20.—A new vaccine to fight one form of typhus, dread pestilence that ravaged Europe as far back as the Middle Ages, was announced to-day by the United States public health service.

Flea, ground up and injected into guinea pigs, forms the basis of the vaccine. The flea, living on rats, carries the American form of typhus, which, although prostrating, is seldom fatal. The vaccine has made some heads of the public health service, but it has not been tried on human beings. That will be the next step in the experiments.

The European typhus, far more deadly than the American form, is believed to have been one of the "plagues" which periodically killed off thousands of people during past centuries. During and after the World War it took a severe toll in many European nations.

Dr. R. E. Dyer, W. G. Workman and L. F. Badger of the national institute of health, and other functions in connection with the Bueharsitic Congress, are the men who prepared the new vaccine.

GOVERNOR NOT AT RECEPTION

Dublin, June 20.—The government of the Irish Free State considers it "hardly appropriate" for James McNeill, Governor-General of the Free State, to attend this evening's state reception to Cardinal Lauri, papal delegate to the Eucharistic Congress here. In connection with the announcement the Governor-General would not be present, the Canadian Press approached the personal secretary in President Ramon de Valera, who stated: "The Governor-General will be attending the Eucharistic Congress in connection with the Bueharsitic Congress. It has been considered hardly appropriate for him to attend the state reception to-night."

New Study Of Bright's Disease

Associated Press Chicago, June 20.—Twenty persons doomed to die of a disease called incurable by medical science have volunteered the risk of their lives as scientists may chart their "steps to death" and possibly benefit others similarly afflicted. To science their contributions may mean a cure or a preventive for Bright's disease.

It will be the first major attempt to study the malady and will be carried on by the Lasker Foundation for Medical Research at the University of Chicago.

DEATH IS MYSTERY

Lucky Lake, Sask., June 20.—Mystery surrounding the death of Roy D. McKinley, postmaster and storekeeper of Tullis, five miles north of here, may never be solved. The body was taken from Saskatoon, the cause a bullet hole in the head. Mounted police, notified last Thursday of the disappearance of the man, began a search and found his car on the traffic bridge at Elbow. Yesterday the body was found among some piling.

Regulations Drafted For Collection of Half-cent a
Gallon Tax

Announcement of a new license fee which calls for fuel oil vendors to pay one dollar for every place where fuel oil is delivered was made at the Parliament Buildings Saturday when regulations governing collection of the new fuel oil tax of half a cent a gallon were outlined.

Consumers are called upon to make duplicate returns on or before the fifteenth of each month of fuel oil used in the month previous, accompanied by payment of the tax involved. These returns are to be made to the collector of provincial taxation in the district concerned.

The consumer is also obliged to keep a record of the fuel oil purchased, or imported, together with the quantity, the name of the vendor, and the amount consumed in each monthly period.

Vendors are instructed to make application for license to the surveyor of taxes, and will pay at the rate of $1 in respect to each place where fuel oil is sold by them. Vendors are also to make monthly returns to the surveyors of taxes, of all fuel oil sold, giving the quantity, the name of the purchaser, and other data, as requested.

Mrs. Alan Morkill Performed Opening Ceremony Saturday Afternoon

Welcome Addition Will Give Much Pleasure to Little Patients

Brilliant weather and boundless enthusiasm characterized the delightful field day held at Queen Alexandra Solarium on Saturday afternoon when the newly-completed Guide hut of the Solarium Troop of Girl Guides and Brownies was officially opened by Mrs. Alan Morkill, provincial guide commissioner, in the presence of many of the directors and interested friends of the Solarium.

Dr. C. E. Wace, medical superintendent, and Miss Stone, lady superintendent, with Miss Dorothy Giles, captain of the Solarium troop, and Miss Sheila Parr, lieutenant, welcomed the guests, among whom were Mrs. Alan Morkill, Mrs. W. C. Nichol, district commissioner, Mrs. Kinloch, island commissioner, Mrs. Gale, commissioner for Saanich; Miss A. Stewart Williams, provincial guides secretary; J. W. Hudson, B. C. Nicholas, Mr. Curtis Sampson and H. Gouding, members of the Board of Directors, and Mrs. P. E. Corby, representing the provincial I.O.D.E.

The little brown hut presented a festive appearance with its hospitable door wide open and its cheery red gingham curtains fluttering at the white-rimmed casements. Flanking either side of the entrance by which the guests approached were rustic green painted flower pots with brightly blooming geraniums and the Union Jack flying from its staff half hid and half revealed the carved emblem of the troop.

At the left of the hut were grouped the fourteen Girl Guides and ten Brownies who now comprise the strength of the troop. In the foreground, Dr. Wace, in introducing the provincial commissioner, Mrs. Morkill, recalled that Miss Pamela Henderson, a former member of the nursing staff, now taking further training in England, had been the original organizer of the Solarium troop, when in November, 1930, she had enrolled five members. Successive by Miss Giles, the present captain, the work had prospered and already forty guides and present have been counted in the Solarium Troop.

Miss Minkie, past president of the B.C. provincial emblem, the Thunder Bird, carved by a Victoria Boy Scout, to bring them luck and happiness; and to the Brownies, from Mrs. W. C. Nichol, a letter replica in the same vivid colorings.

J. W. Hudson, speaking for the board of directors, voiced their appreciation of the success of the day and the building of the Guide hut, which would mean so much to the children, both now and in their happy memories of the Solarium in days to come. With the opening of the hut, it would be of value to them always. Mr. Hudson invited the assembled guests to inspect the hut and announced a silver tea, following the inspection. The tables were placed under the trees and the guests were served by members of the Solarium staff.

At the tea for Solarium—A tea in aid of the Solarium was held at the Quadra School auditorium recently when the programme, at which the following artists assisted, was very much enjoyed: Miss Dorothy Parsons, organist; Mrs. George Green, pianist; Mr. George Green, cornetist. Dances were given by the following: Geraldine Smith, Sheila Jacks, Dorothy Adams, Shirley and Iris Noel, pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Wilson. Mrs. W. Feden gave a short talk on Solarium work. The tea-table was artistically decorated with purple campanulas and white pansies reflecting the colors of the school. Arrangements were made by the following committee: Convener, Mrs. J. V. Weston, assisted by Mrs. P. J. Jeps, Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. V. Roll, Mrs. F. Rose. In the evening at 8:30 o'clock moving pictures were shown by George Green, principal of the Quadra Street School, which were greatly enjoyed, and a sketch was presented entitled "The Family Album," arranged by Mrs. Parrott, president of the Quadra P.T.A. The proceeds amounting to the sum of $21.64 cents will be sent to Solarium.

He will come as far west as Winnipeg next month and then Jarvis plans to meet her husband there.

A surprise party was held for Mrs. E. Skelland, at her home, Vancouver Street, recently by Victoria Lodge No. 83 Daughters of St. George. During the evening, on behalf of the sisters, D.D. S.P. Sister Harris, presented Mrs. Skelland with a lovely case for her work.

Mrs. Morkill congratulated the Guides upon the success of their efforts, the accomplishments of which had resulted in the completion of this most desirable hut for their use. She wished the guides good luck in the future and games such as Guides all over the world are doing, as well as the success of the big international family of Guides, and when the present troop has passed on to join some troops elsewhere, or to continue the work of the future, still in touch with the Solarium, other children will inherit the hut and find their pleasure and delight in it, too.

Mrs. Morkill presented to the Guides the B.C. provincial emblem, the Thunder Bird, carved by a Victoria Boy Scout, to bring them luck and happiness; and to the Brownies, from Mrs. W. C. Nichol, a letter replica in the same vivid colorings.

SOLARIUM HAS GUIDES' HUT

Brilliant weather and boundless enthusiasm characterized the delightful field day held at Queen Alexandra Solarium on Saturday afternoon when the newly-completed Guide hut of the Solarium Troop of Girl Guides and Brownies was officially opened by Mrs. Alan Morkill, provincial guide commissioner, in the presence of many of the directors and interested friends of the Solarium.

Dr. C. E. Wace, medical superintendent, and Miss Stone, lady superintendent, with Miss Dorothy Giles, captain of the Solarium troop, and Miss Sheila Parr, lieutenant, welcomed the guests, among whom were Mrs. Alan Morkill, Mrs. W. C. Nichol, district commissioner, Mrs. Kinloch, island commissioner, Mrs. Gale, commissioner for Saanich; Miss A. Stewart Williams, provincial guides secretary; J. W. Hudson, B. C. Nicholas, Mr. Curtis Sampson and H. Gouding, members of the Board of Directors, and Mrs. P. E. Corby, representing the provincial I.O.D.E.

The little brown hut presented a festive appearance with its hospitable door wide open and its cheery red gingham curtains fluttering at the white-rimmed casements. Flanking either side of the entrance by which the guests approached were rustic green painted flower pots with brightly blooming geraniums and the Union Jack flying from its staff half hid and half revealed the carved emblem of the troop.

At the left of the hut were grouped the fourteen Girl Guides and ten Brownies who now comprise the strength of the troop. In the foreground, Dr. Wace, in introducing the provincial commissioner, Mrs. Morkill, recalled that Miss Pamela Henderson, a former member of the nursing staff, now taking further training in England, had been the original organizer of the Solarium troop, when in November, 1930, she had enrolled five members. Successive by Miss Giles, the present captain, the work had prospered and already forty guides and present have been counted in the Solarium Troop.

Miss Minkie, past president of the B.C. provincial emblem, the Thunder Bird, carved by a Victoria Boy Scout, to bring them luck and happiness; and to the Brownies, from Mrs. W. C. Nichol, a letter replica in the same vivid colorings.

J. W. Hudson, speaking for the board of directors, voiced their appreciation of the success of the day and the building of the Guide hut, which would mean so much to the children, both now and in their happy memories of the Solarium in days to come. With the opening of the hut, it would be of value to them always. Mr. Hudson invited the assembled guests to inspect the hut and announced a silver tea, following the inspection. The tables were placed under the trees and the guests were served by members of the Solarium staff.

At the tea for Solarium—A tea in aid of the Solarium was held at the Quadra School auditorium recently when the programme, at which the following artists assisted, was very much enjoyed: Miss Dorothy Parsons, organist; Mrs. George Green, pianist; Mr. George Green, cornetist. Dances were given by the following: Geraldine Smith, Sheila Jacks, Dorothy Adams, Shirley and Iris Noel, pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Wilson. Mrs. W. Feden gave a short talk on Solarium work. Weston, assisted by Mrs. P. J. Jeps, Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. V. Roll, Mrs. F. Rose. In the evening at 8:30 o'clock moving pictures were shown by George Green, principal of the Quadra Street School, which were greatly enjoyed, and a sketch was presented entitled "The Family Album," arranged by Mrs. Parrott, president of the Quadra P.T.A. SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

BRIDAL COUPLE TO LIVE HERE

Miss Helen McLean of Vancouver Married Saturday to John S. Nichol

Local friends of the principals will be interested in the marriage, which took place in Vancouver Saturday afternoon, when Helen, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McLean, of Vancouver, became the bride of John Stanley Nichol of Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nichol, of Vancouver. The marriage took place at Ryerson Church, Rev. Braden officiating. Pink and white was the color motif of the church decorations which were carried out in summer flowers, while four tall palms were ranged about the altar.

Mr. McLean gave his daughter in marriage, the bride gown being fashioned of white Chantilly lace. A swathed turban of white French crepe had a veil of white dotted net falling over the eyes and white slippers were of the same crepe. The bride carried Ophelia roses and valley lilies in her bouquet.

Miss Lois Tourtellotte, the only attendant, wore coral point d'esprit over a fitting slip of the same shade with a wide blue ribbon sash at the waistline. A picture hat of coral mohair was trimmed with ribbon in the blue, and a sheer bouquet contained delphiniums and sweet peas in the two shades of the ensemble.

Mr. Ian Paterson attended Mr. Nichol as groomsmen and during the signing of the register, Mr. Bill Phillips sang "God Touched a Rose." Mr. Eric Cameron and Mr. Phil Nichol were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 587 Marquette Avenue. Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. George McKenzie, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Nichol, mother of the groom.

Later, for a wedding trip to Sound cities, Mrs. Nichol donned a smart light-weight woolen frock combining coral blue and white with pointed collar and cuffs of the white in crepe de Chine. Her sandals were a matching blue and her small brimmed sports model hat was of interwoven blue and white material. White gloves and a blue purse completed the ensemble. When they return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Nichol will live in Victoria.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A.—St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. held a very enjoyable meeting on Tuesday last. Entries for the sports at the A.Y.P.A. picnic were accepted, and final details for the picnic will be arranged to-morrow. To-morrow the new executive will hold a short meeting at which the programme of the meetings for the coming year will be drawn up.

FASHION PLAQUE

Though crocheting a pair of gloves may look difficult, they are really as easy to make, done with size 30, mercerized crochet thread, and a number 11 steel crochet hook, as the beret or any other piece of crochet work that requires shaping. Each finger is made separately and fitted as it is crocheted. Use size 10 or a double strand of the size 30 thread for the cuffs. To make the gloves will require two balls each of the sizes 30 and 10 thread or six balls of the size 30.

ENTERTAINED AT SOCIAL EVENING

A largely attended social meeting of the Canadian Daughters' League Assembly No. 5 was held Thursday evening in the Shrine auditorium, View Street, with the president, Mrs. C. Stewart, in the chair.

Mrs. S. E. Pike gave a very satisfactory report on the convention. The newly-elected grand president, Mrs. G. H. Gardiner, addressed the assembly.

A basket picnic is to be held at Willoughby Beach on Wednesday, July 20. After the meeting a very enjoyable social time was spent in community singing, adjudicated by Miss M. Watson and won by group four, whose leader was presented with an ebony baton. The drawing contest was won by Mrs. F. Kilby, and Mrs. Peter Ormiston won a prize for a "mile of pennies."

"This being the last meeting before vacation a novel feature was the serving of refreshments from gaily decorated boxes, supplied by half of the members who were hostesses to the other half."

B. C. Daughters
To Hold Garden
Fete At Mountjoy

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Pemberton are kindly lending the beautiful gardens at their home, Mount Joy, Ford Road, to the Native Daughters of British Columbia for that organization's annual garden fete on Saturday afternoon next, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

The gardens are among the most beautiful in the city and it is anticipated that many visitors as well as residents will avail themselves of the opportunity of inspecting them.

Members of the order will receive the guests in their quaint early Victorian costume. There will be afternoon tea, and stalls for the sale of ice cream, and home cooking and candy. The Lady of the Thousand Pockets will be there to greet the children, and altogether a delightful afternoon is promised.

Your Baby
and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MOTHERS EMPLOY PUZZLING
METHODS OF DEDUCTION

One often wonders how young mothers determine that a baby is not getting enough to eat. A young baby has a very limited way of expressing himself. He cries for any cause at all—hunger, overfeeding, pain, need for attention. As a symptom, crying tells us nothing except baby is not exactly satisfied with things as they are. The cause for crying has to be determined by other symptoms.

When it is a question of feeding we have one definite symptom which cannot be overlooked—baby's gain in weight. It does not make much difference whether the baby "acts" hungry, according to his over-anxious mother, whose one fear is that she will starve the baby unwittingly, but rather whether baby's gain is up to average.

A COMPLIMENT
Mrs. J. D. K.'s letter begins with a compliment. "I really do not know what young mothers would do without your help." She continues: "My baby is eight weeks old. He weighed eight pounds two weeks ago. He takes the breast during the day and one bottle feeding of lactated milk at night and sometimes during the day. The breast does not seem to satisfy him. How much of a bottle feeding does he need? And does he need orange juice and cod liver oil? When should I start and how much of these should I give him?"

"His bowels move regularly every morning and sometimes at night, but he cries and strains so much. I keep a cotton shirt, stockings and outing flannel petticoat on him. Then I keep a blanket around him. Is he dressed too warmly? Should I take the blanket off him when I put him in dresses? I surely will appreciate your advice."

HIGH RATE OF GAIN
The average gain per month is one and one-half pounds. Your baby has made an average gain of two and one-half pounds. In the face of that, it is impossible to believe that baby is not satisfied with the breast. There is no need, at present, for any complementary feeding.

Feed the baby regularly at 6, 10, 2 and 6 o'clock, and 10 and 2 o'clock at night. Give boiled water between feedings. Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my "Letter to 'Feeding from Two to Twelve Months.'"

"Complementary Feedings," and "Dressing Baby in Summer."

KYFF COOL
If the baby's gain drops below five ounces weekly and baby seems to want more to eat, then it is time enough to think of complementary feedings. The questions about orange juice and the other additional feedings are better answered in the feeding leaflet.

When the weather is seventy degrees or over in daytime, the baby needs only a cotton shirt, diaper, cotton stockings, and a cotton dress and petticoat. He certainly does not need a blanket about him. Keep the baby cool. That will be my refrain for the rest of this season. No baby in summer needs to be wrapped in swaddling blankets. He needs extra protection when the air gets chilly, but not when the temperature is seventy or above.

Port Alberni, June 20.—J. B. Wood, Inspector of Fisheries, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Wood, left on Sunday to spend a week in Vancouver. Mrs. E. Shearman Bird of Vancouver was a visitor in town for a few days.

SELF-SLAIN MAID AND HER SISTER

On the left is a hitherto unpublished photograph of Violet Sharpe, Mrs. E. H. Fletcher's daughter. Mrs. E. H. Fletcher died in Vancouver Saturday, aged seventy-six years.

Widow of First Post Office Inspector; Did Much Charitable Work

The many Victoria friends of Mrs. E. H. Fletcher, formerly a resident of this city for many years when she made her home on Rockland Avenue and later in Carberry Gardens, will regret to learn of her death on Saturday afternoon at her home in Vancouver, at the age of seventy-six years, after a year of very indifferent health.

Mrs. Fletcher went to Vancouver about seven years ago, following the death of her husband, first post office inspector of British Columbia, and had since lived there with her only son, Adrian Fletcher.

Mrs. Fletcher had an interesting life. Born of a distinguished family at Sir Richard W. Scott, was called to the Senate by the Earl of Dufferin in 1874 and was Secretary of State in the Laurier cabinet from 1896 till 1908.

Mrs. Fletcher inherited from her father and her mother, the former the guest of her brother, Hector Stewart. After spending a few days at Court-enay, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Alexander returned to the city to preach his farewell sermon on Sunday. With Mrs. Alexander and his sister-in-law, Miss Shearman, he will leave to take up work at Pender Island. Rev. A. McLean of Alberni will assume charge of Port Alberni United Church.

After spending some time at Harrison Hot Springs, Mrs. J. Suffern has returned home.

Mrs. D. Pash and her daughter, Colinda, who have been the guests of Mrs. Pash's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pash, have left to spend a holiday at Banfield before returning to their home in West Vancouver.

Members of the Ladies' Association of the United Church were hosts Thursday afternoon at tea and homecoming sale. Mrs. A. T. Turner was general convener of arrangements, and the president, Mrs. J. B. Wood, received the guests. In charge of home-cooking sales were Mrs. W. Pigott and Mrs. M. L. Procter, while assisting with tea and presiding at the urns were Mrs. F. Weaver and Mrs. D. R. Kelly. The sum of $22 was realized.

H. P. Kite and Mrs. Kite and son left on Thursday to take up residence until end of month at Qualicum prior to leaving for the interior.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Plant and family have taken over their residence at Argyle Street.

Mrs. W. A. Alexander was honored at a farewell social arranged by members of the C.G.I.T. of the United Church. Miss Christie Sinclair, "presented her with a handsome tray bearing a chromo picture of Somers River."

It was simply a matter of "me." I was busy to staidly. It was for my nerves and consequently my stomach, and almost as sure as torrid weather arrived I popped into bed with a "brashy" spell, and they used to call such upsets, and twice or thrice I had real gastritis.

So when I hear anyone say, "Children don't feel the heat unless you talk to them about it and make a fuss yourself," I think of those past years.

SUGGESTION IS POTENT
It is true that mental suggestion is a very powerful thing and that turning the unconscious into the conscious does not help any. One time I rather stressed this in an article and instantly a letter arrived from an indignant gentleman who said that when people were uncomfortable and hot they knew it. Strange as it may seem, very often they do not, particularly children.

If possible it is better not to discuss the terrible heat too much, but to take means to make the family comfortable.

Children need sun, but in summer they do not need it between eleven and three, or approximately that. During that time they should play in the shade. On very hot days I would say that during these middle hours they were better in a cool, partially darkened room in the house. On medium days an all-day sunning won't hurt them, probably, but many things must be considered. In a noisy community or in a city, unless there is a quiet yard or garden, out all day in the rear and quiet and make a fuss yourself, aggregating every sound, small nerves wear out.

STOMACHS, TOO, MAY SUFFER
Why do children quarrel more then? Because a grimy, sweaty face and body combined with heat and noise are not conducive to good tempers. A certain amount of real quiet is necessary for children to remain calm and tolerant.

When nerves wear out, watch the stomachs. A very little of summer will do for some children. Just so they get plenty of fresh air and a moderate amount of sun, peace and quiet are often best. It depends on what a child can stand and how he reacts to the heat. Some children thrive under it, of course, but not all, by any means.

If baby is getting odd liver oil daily and a lot of sun, too, I should go immediately and ask the doctor if you are to continue the oil. As they have the same effect, the oil is very often omitted during the summer.

Hot in the sun, a rest time through the day, careful plain food, and plenty of baths all help to keep up health.

Mrs. Fletcher had an interesting life. Born of a distinguished family at Sir Richard W. Scott, was called to the Senate by the Earl of Dufferin in 1874 and was Secretary of State in the Laurier cabinet from 1896 till 1908.

Mrs. Fletcher inherited from her father and her mother, the former the guest of her brother, Hector Stewart. After spending a few days at Court-enay, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Alexander returned to the city to preach his farewell sermon on Sunday. With Mrs. Alexander and his sister-in-law, Miss Shearman, he will leave to take up work at Pender Island. Rev. A. McLean of Alberni will assume charge of Port Alberni United Church.

After spending some time at Harrison Hot Springs, Mrs. J. Suffern has returned home.

Mrs. D. Pash and her daughter, Colinda, who have been the guests of Mrs. Pash's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pash, have left to spend a holiday at Banfield before returning to their home in West Vancouver.

Members of the Ladies' Association of the United Church were hosts Thursday afternoon at tea and homecoming sale. Mrs. A. T. Turner was general convener of arrangements, and the president, Mrs. J. B. Wood, received the guests. In charge of home-cooking sales were Mrs. W. Pigott and Mrs. M. L. Procter, while assisting with tea and presiding at the urns were Mrs. F. Weaver and Mrs. D. R. Kelly. The sum of $22 was realized.

H. P. Kite and Mrs. Kite and son left on Thursday to take up residence until end of month at Qualicum prior to leaving for the interior.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Plant and family have taken over their residence at Argyle Street.

Mrs. W. A. Alexander was honored at a farewell social arranged by members of the C.G.I.T. of the United Church. Miss Christie Sinclair, "presented her with a handsome tray bearing a chromo picture of Somers River."

It was simply a matter of "me." I was busy to staidly. It was for my nerves and consequently my stomach, and almost as sure as torrid weather arrived I popped into bed with a "brashy" spell, and they used to call such upsets, and twice or thrice I had real gastritis.

So when I hear anyone say, "Children don't feel the heat unless you talk to them about it and make a fuss yourself," I think of those past years.

SUGGESTION IS POTENT
It is true that mental suggestion is a very powerful thing and that turning the unconscious into the conscious does not help any. One time I rather stressed this in an article and instantly a letter arrived from an indignant gentleman who said that when people were uncomfortable and hot they knew it. Strange as it may seem, very often they do not, particularly children.

If possible it is better not to discuss the terrible heat too much, but to take means to make the family comfortable.

Children need sun, but in summer they do not need it between eleven and three, or approximately that. During that time they should play in the shade. On very hot days I would say that during these middle hours they were better in a cool, partially darkened room in the house. On medium days an all-day sunning won't hurt them, probably, but many things must be considered. In a noisy community or in a city, unless there is a quiet yard or garden, out all day in the rear and quiet and make a fuss yourself, aggregating every sound, small nerves wear out.

STOMACHS, TOO, MAY SUFFER
Why do children quarrel more then? Because a grimy, sweaty face and body combined with heat and noise are not conducive to good tempers. A certain amount of real quiet is necessary for children to remain calm and tolerant.

When nerves wear out, watch the stomachs. A very little of summer will do for some children. Just so they get plenty of fresh air and a moderate amount of sun, peace and quiet are often best. It depends on what a child can stand and how he reacts to the heat. Some children thrive under it, of course, but not all, by any means.

If baby is getting odd liver oil daily and a lot of sun, too, I should go immediately and ask the doctor if you are to continue the oil. As they have the same effect, the oil is very often omitted during the summer.

Hot in the sun, a rest time through the day, careful plain food, and plenty of baths all help to keep up health.

Mary Heron, a noted Ottawa musician, the highest examples of faultless administration and staunch loyalty, qualities which she exhibited to a marked degree, in the course of her charitable work. Educated at "Villa Maria," Montreal, the then Miss Sara Scott soon gave up her social life at Ottawa to enter the training school for nurses at Bellevue Hospital, New York, returning to Ottawa upon her graduation.

Coming to Victoria after her marriage, Mrs. Fletcher soon became identified with the forming of the Home Nursing Society, and when the Victoria Order of Nurses succeeded this society, and became established here in 1911 by Miss M. J. Kennedy, now of Toronto, Mrs. Fletcher became one of Miss Kennedy's staunchest supporters.

Mrs. Fletcher was also actively associated with the Friendly Help Association for many years, being an honorary vice-president at the time of her death; was a former president of the Children's Aid Society, the first president of the Catholic Women's League of Victoria and a former president of the Altar Society of St. Andrew's Cathedral.

She is survived by one son, Adrian J. Fletcher, Vancouver barrister; three daughters and a brother, Mrs. G. J. Desbarats of Ottawa; the Misses Scott and W. L. Scott, all of Ottawa. Mrs. J. C. Fraser, Mrs. George Leask and Mrs. C. E. Thomas are cousins.

The remains will be brought to Victoria for services, requiem mass to be held at St. Ann's Cathedral to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Halibut livers are now being collected regularly at both Atlantic and Pacific Coast points following scientific research which has demonstrated the richness of these fish livers in vitamins A and D and their value for medicinal oil.

Nickel-clad steel, a new bimetallic plate in which a relatively thin sheet of nickel is firmly welded to steel, is now being used for construction of railroad tank cars required to transport caustic soda, phenol and other chemicals.

One branch of manufacturing in Canada to show a really bright gain in 1931 was the fertilizer industry in which production was valued at $4,147,315 or 65 per cent above the 1930 figure of $2,504,575.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

"The Plains of Abraham"

BY JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
(Copyright by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.)

After Fort William Henry and the brilliant French successes which preceded it, Jeems began to feel the inevitable pressure which is bound to crush the life from a country that is enormously outweighed by its antagonist. The English colonies had put an end to quarrels among themselves, and a million and a half people were set in motion against the eighty thousand in New France, and behind this inundating force were powerful English armies and a still more powerful English navy already inspired by Pitt and Wolfe. As the drums were rung because of his victories, Montcalm knew that New France was hovering at the brink of ruin, but at no time did the outcome of his heroic career press with greater certainty upon himself than upon Jeems.

As the captured cannon were rushed from Fort William Henry to Ticonderoga, Jeems surrendered himself, as Montcalm was to do, to the hands of the British. He was not a man who would have been there for the country she would have made a paradise for him. She grew nearer as the sureness of an approaching end crept upon him, and he felt the beginning of a comfort he had not known before. It was the consolation of something about to happen. Something that was tremendous and final. Something that would have to do with her and with him, and he knew what it was and waited patiently for it as another year passed.

Then came Ticonderoga, that July 8, 1758, when over a space of a hundred acres one could not walk without staining the soles of his shoes with French or English blood—that red day in history and heroism when three thousand toll-worn, harrassed soldiers of New France faced six thousand British regulars and nine thousand American militiamen; the day on which Jeems and his comrades drove back the waves of scarlet and gold and a thousand slithering tomahawks. Black Watch led by Duncan Campbell of Inverawe, until, as Montcalm wrote to his wife, even the bullet-scarred trees seemed to be dripping blood. Through hours of tumult and death, Jeems loaded and fired, and stabbed with his bayonet, and the thing for which he was waiting did not come. Men fell around him, tens and scores and hundreds of them, as the day wore on. He saw whole ranks shiver and crumble before blasts of fire. But when it was ended and the English dropped back in a last smashing defeat, he was unharmed except for bruises and powder-burns on his chest.

But Montcalm retreated, and this puzzled Jeems. The army began to learn the truth at last, and foot-sore, it turned toward Quebec. Jeems, folly, intrigue, and falsehood had fed at the heart of New France until it was honeycombed by the rottenness of dissension. Montcalm was its one star of hope, and as autumn came, then winter, it seemed to Jeems that Montcalm's God had deserted him. The St. Lawrence was filled with British ships. The harvest was meagre, and a barrel of flour cost two hundred francs. Even Montcalm ate horse-flesh. Still he did not lose faith in God. A thousand scoundrels headed by Vaudreuil had fattened on the nation's downfall, and he prayed for them. "What a country!" he exclaimed. "Here all the knaves grow rich and the honest men are ruined. A fighting man, a man of sword and death, he kept his faith to the end. 'If we are driven from the St. Lawrence,' he wrote to his wife, 'we will descend the Mississippi and make a final stand for France among the swamps of Louisiana." This planned and prayed the man whose blessed soul is now shown to visitors in the Ursuline convent at Quebec. Through the spring and summer of 1759, Jeems watched the spiders as they wove their web ever closer about Quebec, the last French stronghold in America. It was in May of 1758 that Toinette had been killed, and it was in May of 1759 that he first saw from the Montmorency shore the mighty rock which so long had been the mistress of the New World.

Four months later, on the most eventful September 13 of written history, that "To-morrow Morning" which will never be forgotten—he stood on the Plains of Abraham.

Montcalm's God was about to complete an immaculate elegy which hung in the air like a mighty chorus waiting for a whispered command to begin. To Jeems Bulfinch, facing the sun and the thin red line of the British across the meadows where Abraham Martin and Jeems had fought, was bringing an end to uncertainty and chaos. It had missed him at Fort William Henry, at Ticonderoga, at Montmorency, but here he could feel its presence—some escape—a release from bondage—something greater than iron or flesh—as the crimson mist drew nearer. He felt the spirit of what Montcalm had said to his doomed heroes a few minutes before, "God is surely watching over the Plains of Abraham to-day."

CHAPTER XIII
It was ten o'clock, the hour of the crisis. At dawn it had been foggy; at six showers had fallen; now it was hot. It might have been July instead of September. In darkness twenty-four British volunteers had climbed the steep heights from the river, hanging to bushes, digging their fingers into crevices of rock, crawling with their faces against the earth, making their way foot by foot. "I am afraid you cannot do it," Wolfe had said, looking at the pitiful blackness above. But they did. Nameless in history, they destroyed the old map of the world and put another in its place. In that hour twenty-four men ruined France, gave rise to a greater England, created a new nation.

At the top, Vergor, the French officer, slept soundly with his guards. To him fate might have given the glory of keeping the old map intact. But he was killed before he could wipe the path of slumber from his eyes. Wolfe's path was made, and like a thin stream of red, it flowed from the British line, ascending the trail which had been blazed for them.

Vaudreuil, the governor, the arch-villain who lost half a continent for France, lay in his cosy nest of iniquity a short distance away dreaming of sensual days with the faithless Madame de Pean and planning a future with the king's own mistress, La Pompadour. Across the St. Charles, expecting the British in a different direction, sleepless, worn, robbed of every chance to win by the weakness and imbecility of this favorite of a king's mistress, he waited.

Jeems was with the battalion of Abraham, and a strange song was in his heart as he thought that Toinette had been of this soil and that her great-grandfather had given name to the earth soon to run red with blood. The Plains were wide and level in most parts, with bushes and trees and cornfields dotting them here and there. They were the front yard to Quebec, a field of destiny lying between the precipitous descents to the St. Lawrence on one side and the anabkita, lay St. Lawrence on the other, with a world of splendid terrain spreading in a panorama under the eyes.

As he lay watching with the men of Guisane, Jeems could scarcely have guessed that this scene of pastoral beauty was the stage upon which one of the epic tragedies of all time was about to be enacted. A feeling of rest came to him, as if it were had come to mark the end of the confusion and unhappiness which had held him a victim for three years, and he felt mysteriously near the presence of influences he could not see. He was a product of times when faith in the spiritual guidance of the affairs of men was strong, and it was not difficult for him to conceive that Toinette was close at his side, whispering in words which only his soul could hear that he had come home.

Six o'clock grew into seven, seven into eight, and eight into nine. In front of him England was forming. Behind him, tricked and outgeneraled, Montcalm was rushing in mad haste across the St. Charles bridge, and under the northern rampart of Quebec to enter the city through the Palace gate. At the edge of the Plains of Abraham the boyish Wolfe, post and philosopher, was preparing for glory or doom. In the quaint, narrow streets of the town were gathering hordes of Indians in scalp locks and war paint, troops of starved and cheated Canadians ready to make a last stand for their homes, battalions of Old France in white uniforms and with gleaming bayonets, battle-scarred veterans of Sarre and Languedoc and Roussillon and Bears, fed on meagre rations for weeks but eager to fight for Montcalm. Ahead where Jeems was looking, were quiet and order and the sole sureness of England's morale. Behind were courage and chivalry and the iron sinews of heroes in the throes of excitement and undisciplined rush.

Jeems saw none of this and nothing beyond the distant red line. The plains lay in sunshine, with bird wings flashing, crows feeding in the cornfields. The earth was a great oriental rug warm with autumn tints, the woods yellow and gold in a frame about it. The guns of Samos, of Sillery, of the boats in the river made sleepy detonations, and on the rise of Butte-a-Neuve Jeems might have slept, lulled by that never-ending monotony of sound, the warmth of the sun, the blue of the sky, the stillness of the plains. He closed his eyes, and the silver and gold mist of sunsets rose about him, the ends of days in which he saw the plains peopled again, first by Abraham Martin and his coveys a hundred and thirty-four years before, then by Toinette, his father and mother, Hespah Adams—and himself. Here was a place he had known, a place he felt he had trod, his soul had lived. He heard the earth whispering these things, the earth which he held between his fingers as if it were Toinette's hands.

In the town, priests and nuns were praying and a bell sent forth its melody, a cheer to man, another appeal to God. New France was on her knees, and Montcalm was on the plains, some of his men coming through the gate of St. John, breathless and eager, to where the banners of Guisane fluttered on the ridge. Tarians waved and bagpipes screamed defiance as Montcalm waited for reinforcements which never came, and the bushes and knolls and cornfields were taken by fifteen hundred Canadians and Indians whose guns answered with a roar. Back and forth the battle raged, and France began to crumble.

Then came ten o'clock. Something must have broken in Montcalm's heart. His judgment wavered, and he gave the fatal command which raised England to the supremacy of the world. The French had formed with bayonets fixed in five short, thick lines, four white and one blue; the English stood with double-shot guns in a long, six-jointed red line. Level ground lay between. Had England advanced, history might have written itself differently. But England waited. France advanced.

Jeems went with the battalion of Abraham, and a strange song was in his heart as he thought that Toinette had been of this soil and that her great-grandfather had given name to the earth soon to run red with blood. The Plains were wide and level in most parts, with bushes and trees and cornfields dotting them here and there. Cap and Megaphone

Director's Entree

By ROBERT GRANDON

JAMES CRUZE played in medicine shows.

ERNEST LUBITSCH was a clothing salesman.

In my mail to-day comes a letter from an inquiring individual . . . "Dear Bob," it reads, "Just what constitutes the background and training for a picture director? I'm thinking of making a try at it" . . . and so forth, and so on.

The answer seems to be that nothing much in particular constitutes the background and training for a picture director. Take so many other things in this business, they just happen. Sieve Roberts, who directed "Sky Bride," was an army aviator. So was Director Bill Wellman. Victor (Marchita) Schitzinger was a concert violinist with Sousa, Prior, Calve and others, an orchestra director, and composer. Lewis Milestone made raincoats at $4 a week.

Karl Brown was an assistant cameraman for Famous Players. He turned the crank for "The Covered Wagon." Christy Cabanne served in the United States navy. Ernest Lubitsch was a clerk in his father's clothing store. Joseph Henabery, who was Abraham Lincoln in "The Birth of a Nation," quit railroading to sing with the San Carlo Opera, and Donald Crisp waved around and shouted the Soldiers' Chorus. George Fitzmaurice, born in Paris, was a painter for years before he turned to the films. And Bryan Foy was one of the little Foyes along with Father Eddie.

Plenty, indeed, came from the stage. James Cruze played in medicine shows and stock. Ed Gouding did a little bit of everything theatrical. . . . D. W. Griffith was an actor . . . after a fashion. Wesley Ruggles did his work behind the footlights. . . . Robert Henley passed from stage to screen to directing, that's all.

Al Santell, John Cromwell. The list is a huge one. And then you find that Dorothy Arzner was a stenographer. Mickey Nielsen a chauffeur, and Al Green made his living pasting labels on bottles. No, indeed, there's no telling what makes a director. . . . It just happens, that's all.

BIG FOX BEARS MAKE $2,000,000

William Fox With Raskob and Group Smash His Own Theatre Stock

Washington, June 20.—A nine-month extension of the United States Senate stock market investigation was sought after hearings in which William Fox was charged with participating in a short-selling pool in the stock of one of his own corporations, along with John J. Raskob and others.

This testimony came from William A. Gray, counsel for the Senate banking committee, who said Fox, Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, William F. Kenney, Walter P. Chrysler, Joseph E. Higgins, Bradford Ellsworth, Nicholas F. Brady and Mrs. Elizabeth Meehan had made nearly $2,000,000 from operations in a Fox Theatre pool in 1929.

The decision to add the Senate to the investigation was made unanimously by the committee. A resolution to provide $50,000 additional for this purpose was prepared for early introduction.

If the Senate empowers the committee to continue through the life of the present congress, there will be no hearings during the summer recess, but the committee's investigators will continue their work in New York and elsewhere. Without the new authorization the investigation would expire on adjournment.

The testimony concerning Fox and Raskob was given by Gray in tracing a maze of operations involving Foxfilm and Fox Theatre Corporations, both of which Fox headed.

Gray said Michael J. Meehan and Company managed the Fox pool and that Raskob, Fox, Chrysler, Kenney and Brady participated to a greater degree than the others. He explained those five agreed to become liable to the extent of $750,000 each, while the liability assumed by Mrs. Meehan, Higgins and Ellsworth was $250,000.

N. SASKATCHEWAN CROP IS BUMPER

Prince Albert, Sask., June 20.—Northern Saskatchewan is well on its way to produce another bumper crop to match the output in wheat and other grains from this area last year. A crop survey made by The Prince Albert Daily Herald of the extensive area served by this city brought replies from all points indicating prospects are for a bumper than average crop of all grains and that no damage has been suffered from any source. Moisture is plentiful. Growing conditions have been ideal. Wheat is maturing nicely and all crops are advancing rapidly. Continued warm weather is required, although warm spells which have followed the rains have advanced crops to a point beyond that attained at the corresponding date in any previous year. Points reporting ideal growing conditions include Tisdale, Cadwiler, Paddockwood, Blaine Lake and Big River.

MOTOR DAMAGE CASE FOUGHT

Appeal against the judgment of Mr. Justice Fisher of the Supreme Court, who awarded Edward L. Hornbrook $1,117.15 against the Toronto Casualty Fire and Marine Insurance Company because of damages caused by the car of George Rennie, which had been insured against liability, was opened before the Court of Appeal here today by Alfred Bull, counsel for the insurance company.

It was explained that William Boyd, administrator of the estate of T. H. Boyd, obtained judgment for $1,000 damages against Mr. Rennie in connection with the operations of motor car No. B.C. 92,222. Because Mr. Rennie had liability insurance with the Toronto Casualty, he claimed the company should reimburse him for the amount. The suit was undertaken by Mr. Hornbrook on behalf of Mr. Rennie. James L. Lawrence is appearing for the Hornbrook, Boyd and Rennie side.

FIJI CUSTOMS TOLD CLUBMEN

C. F. Barker Gives Gyros Entertaining and Instructive Address

Explains Method of Preparing Copra and Sketches Pearl Diving

Interesting stories of his career as a trader in the Fiji Islands, along with the descriptions of the natives and the islands, were presented by C. F. Barker in an entertaining address before the Gyro Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Barker described the location and topographical features of the Fiji Islands, which were crown colonies. In detail he referred to the personal associations with the Solomon boys of the islands, interspersing his remarks with humorous anecdotes. The oratorical prowess of natives in their own tongue was remarkable, the speaker said.

Mr. Barker was warm in his praise of the physical and mental development of the Polynesian men, who, he thought, were the survivors of a great race. In games, particularly football, they were excellent. The great spear-throwing sport of the islands was described.

DO NOT DRESS
"How do they dress?" Mr. Barker asked. "They don't," he said. At the request of his wife the women had been dressed for the occasion, but whenever she returned to the "altogether," the speaker said.

PREPARATION OF COPRA
Describing the preparation of copra, he said it was virtually the same as dedicated coconut. It took between 3,000 and 5,000 nuts to make a ton of copra. An average "boy" could knife out terms of 1,000 nuts a day. The product was then dried and shipped in sacks to America where it was refined and split into its component parts including coconut oil. He sketched the beach of a fisherman in which these sea slugs, cured for a Chinese delicacy, were taken from the sea.

A furious type of barracuda, "tiger of the South Sea," was the greatest menace to the pearl divers of the district. They did not mind sharks when the barracuda appeared the diving operations were over, he said. Mr. Barker blasted the idea that divers went down to extreme depth, by stating that one of the best divers of the island had died as the result of going down five and one-half fathoms. Severe and sudden storms made the life of a trader one of considerable danger, he said, as he had lost two cutters during his sojourn there.

Hurricanes in the district reached a velocity of 150 miles an hour, knocking down trees and causing great damage.

The effect of the missionaries on the islands was detrimental to the natives, Education of the natives was not an unmitigated blessing. When the men received some knowledge they went in trading, secured some funds and then went away and spent it.

Mr. Barker, president of the club, thanked the speaker for his interesting and entertaining address.

CRICKETERS BRAVE RAIN

The Vancouver Island cricket team, opposing the visiting Australians, went into bat first as the match at Mount Tolmie started at 2.35 o'clock this afternoon following a postponement of an hour and one-half hour because of rain. A light drizzle was falling when the Australians took the field.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

HARRY MAYNARD
J. A. MACINTOSH
HENRY JARVIS
J. C. "SCOTTY" DOWDS
H. P. ALLBERRY

For nearly half a century Harry Maynard has been a resident of this city. He came here from the Old Country in 1884, and, with other members of his family, has been active in the business life of the community. He organized and developed the Silver Spring Brewery in Victoria West. Of a cheerful and kindly disposition Mr. Maynard has been noted for his generosity to all charitable organizations in this city. Many individuals and clubs have also been aided by Harry's helping hand. He lives at 884 Esquimalt Road, and is receiving birthday greetings.

John Alexander Macintosh, sales manager of the B.C. Telephone Company, is a native son and is celebrating his birthday to-day. He lives at 1140-Billings Avenue, and is married and has two children. He takes an active part in the work of the Rotary Club, and has a reputation of being an ace at sports.

H. P. Allberry of Ridgwick Farm, Sandwick, who celebrates his birthday to-morrow, was born on the farm in Scotland and came to the Coast as a lad. After a time in California he came to Vancouver Island and farmed in Spanish until he went overseas in 1914. He served with distinction and won decorations on active service before he came home at the end of hostilities. The Comox Valley then appealed to him. He has built up a reputation as a successful farmer, combining scientific methods with practical experience.

Detective Henry Jarvis is receiving congratulations of many friends today. As the son of a successful merchant in Dordrecht, Kent, he started out in life to be a draper. In those days he showed signs of becoming the man of the fine physique he is to-day, and sought a more active life. With his elder brother he came to Victoria as a lad twenty-two years ago. He went overseas with the 7th Battalion, and was on active service with the army and infantry. He joined the police force eleven years ago, and was rewarded with a well-earned promotion to detective sergeant months ago. He has won a lot of athletic honors in police and other sports. He takes pride in a well-trained handsome police dog which he claims he has taught to do everything but chop kindling, and he still has hopes of teaching it that.

Birthday congratulations are being received to-day by J. C. "Scotty" Dowds, who is well-known in Victoria court circles. "Scotty" takes an active interest in basketball and the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and is a football referee. He is employed with the "Producers' Band and Gravel Company" (1929) Limited.

LIST PASSES 22,000 MARK

Victoria city's new Provincial Voters' List will go over the 22,000 mark, it was announced to-day at the completion of the preliminary count. This will be an increase of 3,000 over the last list.

Registration by the enumerators was completed last week. To-day a staff of stenographers trained to scrutinize the applications, is at work at the courthouse going over the 22,000 applications individually and listing them in alphabetical order.

For those who did not get on the recent enumeration, a court of revision will be opened at the courthouse about the middle of July.

AUSTRALIA OUT FOR TOURISTS

Started Two Years Ago With £80,000 Fund to Develop Travel Trade

Agent of Recently Formed Association Visiting Victoria To-day

In the last two years Australia has realized the value of tourist trade, and is now in the field to make an enterprising bid to direct holiday-makers to the Commonwealth and build up a steady influx of travelers to a country which has a lot to offer them. Arthur H. O'Connor of the Australian National Travel Association visited to-day.

Mr. O'Connor, whose headquarters are in San Francisco, was a visitor to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau this morning.

The movement was sponsored by the Development and Migration Board of the Commonwealth Government on the suggestion of Harold Clapp, chief commissioner of the railways in Victoria. Mr. O'Connor said. During twenty years residence in the United States, Mr. Clapp saw the value of tourist business. The Australian Government and all the government railways in Australia make substantial annual grants to the fund.

Although the last two years have not been the best years to judge by results there is a distinct trend for Pacific travel, Mr. O'Connor says. Before, virtually all travelers to Australia were on business trips. They are now going for vacations, and the low one-class tourist fares on the P.N.O. and Orient boats are helping to build up the Australian tourist trade.

Mr. O'Connor believes there is a community of interest between countries on both sides of the Pacific. Both will benefit from a development of tourist business, he believes. He has recently visited virtually every city of the United States and finds interest in Pacific travel growing. Pacific travel has stood up in the last two years far better than Atlantic travel, he claims, and many inquiries are being made for future trips. While realizing the tourist trade in Australia, Australia also looks for settlers as a result of visits paid by holiday-makers.

SINGLE MEN MAKE PROTEST

Government Refuses Immediate Aid, Former Sooke Camp Workers Declare

Appearing before the relief committee of the City Council this morning, a delegation representing single men who have been working at the Sooke Lake Relief Camp, complained that they had been refused assistance by the provincial government until next week. The Sooke camp was closed this month by the city on the understanding that the provincial government would take care of the men who had been employed there. Some of the men have been back in the city for a week or more, they told the committee this morning they had been informed by the provincial relief officer that they should have enough money to last them until June 28, when they could make applications for government relief.

The men claim they are now without funds. Approximately 100 appeared at the City Hall this morning and later a delegation of three interviewed the committee, which promised to take the matter under consideration.

It was announced later the committee would seek an interview with the sub-relief committee of the provincial cabinet and ask for the return of the men to the camp. While the government officials now say they cannot take the men back, the city assumes no responsibility for them, having been assured the government would take care of all single men.

BOOTLEGGER ASKS "FOR" CONVICTION

Wrong, as Well as Missing Words, Cost Pullen His Chance to Appeal

Because some of his appeal papers were put into court in the wrong phrases left out, John Pullen, sentenced by Magistrate to six months for operating a beer resort at 615 Johnson Street, had his appeal wiped out to-day by Judge Lammiman and must serve his term.

After Pullen's papers had been placed before the court by his counsel, J. C. Brandon, and had been stamped and formally accepted by the judge as exhibits, Prosecutor C. L. Harrison objected that the notice of appeal had not been signed.

Mr. Brandon explained that the exhibits submitted were merely carbon copies and the fact that they were not signed had no effect on the originals. "Anyhow, the wording of this appeal says it is an appeal 'for' conviction," Mr. Harrison read out some of the necessary legal forms which had been turned in blank, not having been filled in. He protested that "Mr. Pullen's affidavit is hopelessly defective."

Meeting Mr. Harrison's technical objections, Mr. Brandon pointed out they only involved more formalities and had nothing to do with the facts of the case. The judge, however, said he considered the formalities important.

"The notice of appeal ought to show the court where the conviction took place," said Judge Lammiman. "This notice of appeal does not show that."

CITY WATCHES RELIEF MOVE

Mayor Awaits Information on Government Plan to Curtail Allowances

Announcement of the provincial government's plan to curtail relief allowances to municipalities in line with a general policy of economy was received with some dismay at the City Hall this morning.

The special relief committee of the City Council discussed the matter this morning. It is understood, but until further information is available from the provincial government, Mayor Leeming declined to make any comment upon the possible effect of the plan on this city.

It is probable the relief committee will seek an interview with the unemployment committee of the cabinet to make representations on the subject.

FIRE AROUSES HOUSEHOLDERS

Early Morning Blaze Damages Residence on Vining Street

Fire at the home of W. S. Morris, 1422 Vining Street, aroused the occupants of the house at 6.46 o'clock yesterday morning and considerably damaged the rear of the premises before it was checked by the fire department.

Members of the family were in bed when the blaze broke out from an unknown cause. Mrs. Morris awoke in time to smell the smoke before the blaze assumed serious proportions and turned in an alarm. The occupants were not endangered by the flames and the fire engines were summoned in time to prevent a disastrous blaze.

A grass fire at 1198 Yates Street and a roof fire at 920 Port Street also required attention of the department yesterday.

Duncan Remains in Running For Senior League Net Title

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Autograph Hunters Flock Around Australian Cricketers

Visiting Batsmen Lose Six Balls in Match at Duncan

Harry Heilmann Leaves Major Baseball With Fine Record

Was Real Sportsman, Fine Player and Possessed Great Courage

ONE OF the interesting sidelights on the cricket match at Duncan on Friday between the touring Australians and "rep" team of the Cowichan club was the small army of children and fans which requested the tourists for their autographs. During the course of the afternoon the Australian players must have signed autograph books somewhere around the 1,000 mark. The youngsters were a scream in their desperate efforts to get their books signed. They crept under and over the fences surrounding the clubhouse and tea pavilion and when the players came outside followed them around like a bunch of bees around a honey pot. The Australians themselves got a big kick out of the scramble, and good naturedly signed as many books as possible.

It was interesting to hear remarks of Duncan old-timers on the batting prowess of the Australians. They saw nothing they never imagined could be made, and when the visitors started knocking the balls into the forest at the south end of the pitch they were amazed. One humorous incident came during Bradman's stand. He had been knocking out boundaries regularly, when suddenly one of his terrific drives to the side of the clubhouse missed his wife by inches. Several of the spectators declared he did it on purpose, but other members of the Australian team, who accompanied Bradman and his wife, declared it was an accident.

It is a pretty safe bet that it will be a long time before the Cowichan club engages in another match in which their opponents lose six balls in the woods. That is the number the touring slugs put into the tall pines surrounding the field. One of V. J. Richardson's terrific drives went across the fence at the north end of the field, over a house and landed in a resident's back yard. So many balls were going into the crowd that the fans were forced to pay strict attention, and several fine catches were pulled off by the spectators. A number of the drives made by the Australians were passed by Richardson, Kippax, Bradman and McCabe would have gone for home runs in a ball game.

The Cincinnati Reds gave Harry Heilmann his unconditional release the other day, and there passed from the majors a man who was more than a good ball player, more than a great hitter. For Heilmann always has been a real sportsman, with a fine spirit of fair play and a fighting heart. In 1927 he gave one of the greatest shows of manly courage ever seen in the majors. That was when he passed Al Simmons for the American League batting championship in the last game of the season.

Before the double-header between Cleveland and Detroit that ended the season, Heilmann's batting average was .391. The Philadelphia Athletics had ended their season, and Al Simmons closed out with three out of four games. By batting .400 in the first game of the double-header Heilmann could pass Simmons by a point and equal his record for right-handed batters leading the league four times. George Grant, a right-hander, pitched the first game for Cleveland. Heilmann hit for two bases his first two times at bat in the two games, and he could have quit then, with the batting championship assured, as he topped Simmons by a point.

But not Harry. He kept playing. He got another hit in that first game, ending up with three out of four. The prize was his. It was not expected that he would play the second game, and jeopardize his leadership. Yet when the second game was called Heilmann trotted out to right field. The fans recognized his sportsmanship then in a thunderstorm of cheers. He was going to play out his string, title or no. He wanted that record dearly but he did not let it qualify by the fact that he quit without giving Simmons every chance.

And in that second game he got four hits out of five off big Bob Gurnea, the Cleveland southpaw, including a home run. That made seven hits out of nine times at bat in the two games, and gave Heilmann a final season's batting average of .398 against Simmons's .392.

He tried to fight his way back with the Reds. Dan Howley, who had been with him in the old days at Detroit, gave him every chance. Heilmann fought hard, just as he had fought for that batting championship five years ago. This time he lost. The Reds had to let him go.

He leaves the majors with no more earthly goods than he has when he came up eighteen years ago. But he has bequeathed to baseball a great gift—the splendid memory of a manly courage. He has left the tradition of a fighting heart.

Adverse Weather In U.S. Gives Strength To Winnipeg Wheat

Winnipeg, June 20.—Unfavorable harvest conditions throughout the United States southwest wheat area and higher wheat quotations at Liverpool gave strength to a wavering wheat market to-day. Prices at the close were one cent to 1/4 higher than Saturday's closing figures.

July closed one cent higher at 55; October 1/4 higher at 57 and December one to 1/4 higher at 58.

The generally stronger trend to-day reflected a natural reaction from a thoroughly liquidated and probably somewhat overvalued market.

There was little evidence of export buying over the week-end. The market opened with a strong undertone and with the exception of a slight sag at midseason had no difficulty in holding gains.

Liverpool's strength was attributed to smaller world shipments, a decrease in Russia's seeding of spring wheat and unfavorable harvesting conditions in the United States.

In Russia the hot, dry weather in the main spring wheat crop belt is holding the crop back. Heavy rains and high winds were reported over a considerable area in the United States winter wheat belt.

Demand for cash wheat continues disappointing. Odd cars changed hands at spreads fractionally higher than unchanged. Coarse grain trade was stagnant. Slight gains were scored in pit trade in late trading.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, June 20.—Wheat: While the wheat market was decidedly firm to-day with prices ranging from about one cent higher than close on Saturday to 1/4 higher than Saturday's closing figures.

There was little or no export business worked over the week-end, only a few odd loads being taken from seaboard and which was not reflected here. There was selling pressure on the market the light offerings being absorbed in spreading operations.

The chief feature in the news this morning was the heavy rains, with rain received in winter wheat areas over the week-end which will retard harvest for several days. The rains and thunderstorms were accompanied by high winds and heavy damage is reported from several places in Missouri and Kansas and nearby states. The later weather reports show that showers had been fairly general over southern Manitoba. This is probably where the moisture is most needed.

In the local cash market there was a very poor demand for everything and spreads on the top grades were inclined off 1 to 2 cents most of the day. The Canadian visible increased 1,815,000 bushels while the U.S. visible decreased 1,506,000 bushels with rather small world shipments last week, the on-tube supplies increasing in the west on Saturday were down to 478,000 bushels vs. 584,000 a year ago.

Winnipeg closed 1 to 1/4 higher.

Coarse grains: There was a fair export business in rye reported—probably 300,000 bushels—and a few scattered loads in oats, but there was nothing doing in barley. The coarse grain markets were all firm and higher and offerings were light, especially in oats.

Oats closed 1 to 1/4 higher, rye 1 1/4 to 1 higher.

Flax: This market was also firm 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 higher.

Liverpool due unchanged to 1/4 lower on Winnipeg.

Prince David Being Repaired At Halifax

Big Job Will Cost $450,000 and Will Employ 300 Men More Than Four Months

Former Local Ship to Be Practically Rebuilt Following Bermuda Grounding

It will cost $450,000 to repair the Canadian National liner Prince David in Halifax, according to word received here this morning. Work on the big job started at the eastern port to-day and will take more than four months here, having been left in the water since the ship was grounded in Bermuda. The Prince David is well-known here, having been seen between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle last summer, until late in July, when she grounded on her way to Seattle from this port. In December she went around to the Atlantic Coast and ran hard aground on a coral reef near Bermuda.

It has not been stated where the Prince David will go when repairs are completed. She will probably remain at Halifax until the start of the next cruising season to the West Indies and Panama.

"It is the biggest reconditioning job we have ever had," stated R. J. Nelson, general manager of the Halifax shipyard, in commenting on the job. "We are expecting the fullest co-operation from every workman and member of the staff. The contract will give work to a large number of Halifax men, and I hope that the organization fully appreciate our situation and will give us the best of help in meeting the order."

The repairing of the Prince David will keep 300 men employed for four and a half months, and will mean approximately $150,000 paid out in wages to Halifax men.

The contract calls for delivery of the ship to the company, stating that the enders were submitted to the owners and underwriters and opened private. It is understood, however, that the tender of the Halifax shipyard was the highest.

The Prince David, one of the most recent additions to the Canadian National Steamship fleet, and after grounding on the reef a few hours after she had left Hamilton, Bermuda, was abandoned as lost, but on later examination by the underwriters it was found that the vessel was not damaged beyond repair.

FARMERS TO VISIT CITY

Party From England, Numbering Forty, to Spend Two Days in Victoria Next Month To Make Education Tour of Canada, Visiting Farms in Prairie Provinces

A party of forty farmers will visit Victoria for two days next month during the course of a Canadian tour under the auspices of the British National Union, according to word received here to-day. The members of the party will sail from Southampton to-morrow by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia. In the party will be twelve Dutch and English farmers from the Union of South Africa and two from the Irish Free State. The others will be from all parts of England.

The itinerary calls for their arrival here on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 20. They will remain here until the afternoon of July 22, when they will return to Vancouver. While on the lower part of the Island the visiting farmers will be taken to Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butcher's Gardens, across Saanich Inlet and up the Malahat as far as Duncan. There will be time given in Victoria for independent sightseeing. While here they will be guests at the Empress Hotel. The Lieutenant-Governor will hold a reception at Government House for the visitors.

A feature of the trip across the prairies, in which the visiting farmers will be the most interested, will be a side trip from Calgary to the Prince of Wales River at High River. The party will be in Calgary at the time of the big stampede. Other prairie points to be visited include Winnipeg, Brandon, Saskatoon, Edmonton, from where the members of the party will be taken on motor drives to adjoining farms. Other points in Canada where stopovers will be made are Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Niagara, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Banff, Vancouver, Lake Louise, Agassiz, Strathmore, Nipigon and Ottawa. The return trip to England will be by the liner Duchess of Bedford.

BRITISH PARTY REACHES COAST

B.C. Tourists Spending Three Days in Vancouver Before Coming Here

Two Women Members of Party Suffered Injuries in Accident at Kelowna

Vancouver, June 20.—Mrs. W. Brookbank of Skipton, Yorkshire, suffered a fracture of one wrist and Miss E. M. Nyblert of Seven Oaks, England, suffered minor injuries when an automobile in which they were riding overturned near Kelowna yesterday. They are members of the British party of thirty-three persons now touring British Columbia under the guidance of the British Columbia government, but at their own expense. The party arrived here to-day, with the exception of the two injured women, who will come along in a few days.

Vancouver, June 20.—Their tour of the Kootenay and Okanagan districts in the interior completed, the thirty-three members of the British Columbia government's inspectional party from Great Britain, arrived here this morning and began a three-day tour of Vancouver, New Westminster and the metropolitan area.

President Harold Brown and other officials of the Vancouver Board of Trade were on hand at the Canadian Pacific Railway station to greet the British tourists and they are being officially welcomed to the city at a Board of Trade luncheon in their honor at Hotel Vancouver to-day.

Vancouver's port facilities, its methods of handling the increasingly large grain shipments transhipped here annually, the new Pacific Coast terminals at New Westminster and other phases of shipping here and in the Royal City will be reviewed by the visitors before they leave for Victoria to start the Vancouver Island portion of their comprehensive British Columbia tour.

"The vast natural resources of our interior districts, the Kootenays and Okanagan," said Ralph Deakin of The London Times, "have deeply impressed us, and the whole-hearted friendliness of the people of those districts was a revelation." Under the auspices of local guides and expert horticulturists, the visitors were given every opportunity to learn the facts of fruit growing as practiced in the interior. Mr. Deakin continued, and this was more than usually interesting in view of the large sale of British Columbia fruits in England.

"It is a distinct innovation in conducted tours," declared W. A. McAdam, Secretary of British Columbia House, London, who is in charge of the party, "and it has been an unqualified success. Several members of the party are planning to locate permanently in the province as the result of what they are seeing."

SEARCH FOR FIRE CHIEF

Grappling Irons Being Used in Drydock in Search For Men Lost in Tanker Mishap

Canadian Press Montreal, June 20.—Water in the dry dock of Canadian Vickers Limited, scene of disastrous explosions on Friday morning, yielded up its dead to the number of twelve over the week-end. Two men injured in the explosion died in hospital, bringing the total known dead to twenty-four, of whom two were still unidentified yesterday. In addition three are missing.

The body of director Raoul Gauthier of the Montreal fire department, who disappeared following the second explosion, had not been recovered, and was still being sought yesterday evening when darkness called a halt to operations.

Eleven men were found at one time by divers, spread in gruesome array around the hull of the wrecked tanker Cymbelec, which was being repaired in drydock when the explosions rang out. Most of the men had been fatally injured in the searing blast, but some had been drowned in oil and water when thrown from the scaffolding built up around the tanker.

The search for Fire Chief Gauthier was centered around tanks in the floor of the drydock. Grappling irons were being used to drag the fifteen feet of oil and water in these tanks as survivors of the fatality believed he was wandering over one of them when the second explosion occurred.

Should a blank be found there, it would be necessary, it was believed, to move the whole dock to permit divers to work underneath it.

Montreal, June 20.—The revised death list of the disaster which took place at Canadian Vickers Limited Drydock here early Friday morning contained twenty-seven names yesterday evening. Twenty-four bodies had been recovered. Five were listed as missing, but of these two were at the morgue, leaving three bodies unaccounted for.

The identified dead: Fireman Paul Henrich, Fireman Louis de Bruijn, Fireman L. Hamelin, James Corbett
